Social Activities Calendar

Hilltops

"All is quiet on the Western front" could well be applied to the campus this week due to the absence of the high school students who were on a week-long trip to the west coast. Some students have been using the time to catch up on their studies and some have been attending social events in the area. The students have been enjoying the efficient and smooth way in which it is come off. The spirit with which everyone has been welcomed with Senior Day worked out outstanding. The program in the gymnasium was enjoyed by all, and the various groups performing should be thanked. To the students and faculty members who labored so diligently and devoted so much long hours of work and headaches, you record on your hearts for a Job well done.

Since it is comparatively quiet this week, it should begin to be realized that "final-examinations" will be a matter of history. It is already almost upon us again soon. The breaking of the midnight oil for the comparison of our already overdue term papers, maps, projects, and various odds and ends that always seem to come up in the very midst part of the whole thing can be increased for even harder work, studying for final exams. We can put off studying these last two weeks and put this on the top of our list of things to do. Why don't we try it for finals, and leave school this year with a sense of really learning something and being able to use it.

Although this weekend will be set aside by some of us to study, let's not overlook day after tomorrow for a day of fun to remember. How about an editorial worth repeating written by Dr. Mac Caldwell, who was associate editor of the Herald in 1910.

"I'm not sure who established Mother's Day, but I'm pretty sure it will be Mother's Day next year. This is the day that has been set aside to honor our mothers since 1910. The idea for this day was first proposed by Mrs. Sarah Garrard, of the Library Science Department.

L. T. Smith Recipient of High Award

By James Weddle
Mr. L. T. Smith, head of the Industrial Arts department, received the highest honorary award in the field of industrial arts and vocational education, Saturday, May 4, at the Kankakee Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the guests of honor at the NIETTA CLARK DINNER CHAIRMAN OF THE EPISILON PI TAU FRATERNITY DINNER.

The EPISILON PI TAU, the International Honorary Professional Fraternity in Industrial Arts and Industrial Vocational Education, was founded by Dr. William K. Warner, in 1929, at Ohio State University. The fraternity has grown from a small group of men at an industrial college to an organization embracing fifty-eight chapters.

The fraternity has a three-fold purpose — to recognize and promote scholarship; to foster, counsel, reward, publish and circulate the records of achievement.

Among the few Industrial Arts Leaders to receive the Laureate Honor are: Dr. Finkel, Illinois Institute of Technology; Dr. Jay, Southern Methodist University, and Dr. Turner Smith, University of Minnesota, and Mr. T. Smith, Western Kentucky State College.

Other distinguished guests were present: Dr. William G. Saath, Dean, Murray State College; Dr. Ralph W. Wood, President of Murray State College; Dr. Ralph Osterhout, Superintendent of Schools, National Industrial Arts Association, Kentucky. The presentation of the award was made by Assistant Mayor of Western's graduating class '36, now head of Industrial Arts department at Murray State College.

Before enrolling at Bradley University, Mr. Smith attended and graduated from Hadiam High School in Skeelite, Iowa. After attending Southern Illinois University, Mr. Smith returned to Bradley where he received the degree of a master of science degree with a major in industrial education.

While at Bradley, Mr. Smith met the woman he later married. In September, 1919, he married Miss

T. Smith

Cleta Looman. One year later the couple moved to Bowling Green.

As odd-genre remember, Strange young people are told, there has been quite a bit of progress in this field. The housing shortage was far more acute than now. Frederic O. H. cherry covered two camps on the river to secure labor to help build a house for himself and his wife. Within three weeks the house was built and occupied.

Received Masters at Peabody
In May, Mr. Smith received the Master's degree in industrial arts at Peabody College.

Mr. Smith greatly loved his family; his first greatest love is in industrial arts and the young men and women who are interested in that field of activity. He believes that no finer contribution can be made to future generations that made by the young men and women now preparing to teach boys and girls to do things worth while and to lead stronger, finer, and more lasting physical surroundings.

Work on Hill Evidenced
Evidence of Mr. Smith's enthusiasm in industrial arts can be seen here on Western's campus. Many buildings on the campus have been built under his supervision. The new Dairy Barn, the Music building, the Agricultural and Forestry hall, the gymnasium, the Home Economics building, the Physical Education building were built by the students. In the last few years we have seen much new dormitory space, a new entrance way, and in the near future a new residential building will be built. All of these buildings were the result of Mr. Smith's work.

Mr. Smith has been head of the industrial arts department, through extended service at Western since three years ago. He has been a leader in the school, teacher, education program in industrial arts, and he has been active participant in local, state, national and international organizations and has been the recipient of many awards. Mr. Smith will be considered the Dean of Industrial Arts Education in Kentucky.

Puerto Rican Is Student On Western's Campus

By MIKE SPEECK

Several times the Herald featured an article on surgery on the Western campus from other countries. Today the only foreign national student enrolled at Western is presented.

Hector Noel Menendez, an 18-year-old freshman, comes from Porto Rico. Born in Caguas, Porto Rico, Hector was living at Christians in the Canal Zone before moving to the state. He now makes his home at Fort Knox with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Menendez and sister Maria who is 16.

Hector entered the University of Porto Rico High School in 1956, receiving a $600 scholarship as the outstanding student of the school. He married on the Fort Knox state tournament baseball team, hitting 3 for 4 for an average. His regular season experience was held at Western, he got four hits in five times at bat against Campbellsville.

Baseball was the chief reason for Hector's coming to Western. Past football and baseball coach Jack Clayton had shown much interest in the young outfielder, and had filled out a port scholarship for him. Although surprised by the absence of Mr. Clayton, Hector entered at mid-season with the intention of proving himself and continuing his play in baseball.

Because of the warm climate, baseball was played the year around in Porto Rico. "Shining off the diamond during the winter months proved quite a task for him. For a boy who has swung a bat this year around since the age of six this was definitely a disadvantage.

The young Porto Rican enrolled at Western, following a commercial course. His school work this semester includes English, algebra, biology and economics. He has pledged to the Prentis Room. While at Western, speaking of the philosophy he has been through, he observed, "The Peace of Western offers a way to see if you have the capability of leadership, so see if you can become a good officer."

Now that Hector is nearing an active life, he is known as if a student at the University Hospital in Birmingham, Ala.

Hector takes much pleasure in speaking of his favorite native foods. With the grace of an experienced chef he described to this reporter his dish of Pastelos, an unusual dish containing a few either pork or chicken, covered mashed green bananas and nut sauce, wrapped in a big banana leaf.

When asked about the climate, he answered, "The Peace of Western offers a way to see if you have the capability of leadership, so see if you can become a good officer."
Former Western basketball star and now professional basketball star, Art Spokstra, is in Bowling Green for the summer. He plans to buy a part-interest in a service station on the Nyr-Pass. Mr. Spokstra holds the Western single-game scoring record of 52 points scored against Muncie in the Western gym in December of 1956, and is still the Kentuckey collegiate record holder.

The Hilltopper all-time career scorer, Tom Marshall, is also in Bowling Green. He is also playing professional basketball. Last report is that he is considering a summer job here with construction work to keep in shape.

R. A. Demumbrum, AB '23, was honored by a surprise party recently. The party was held in the Brunswick High School gymnasium and was attended by some 350 Brunswick graduates and visitors from other cities. Tribute was paid to Mr. Demumbrum for his leadership in the field of education for the past 30 years. Mr. Demumbrum has served as principal of the Brunswick school for 19 years and as teacher for five years. Because of ill health he has been on a leave of absence for the past few months.

Mr. Demumbrum was presented several nice gifts, and two plaques.

Edwin C. Jordau, BS '24, recently received a Reserve Army commission as a captain in the Medical Corps at Fort Sam Houston.

Last Players Production
“Trio ‘57” Is Smash Hit

By Robert R. Waters

“Trio ‘57” had something of everything. The Variety offered, as the fourth major production of the Western Players for this season, was so widely appealing that the saloon, which was completely filled with audiences, could not contain the overflow. The “Trio” was a combination of three dramatically different pieces, each with its own particular appeal. The result was a production that was a triumph of unified direction and imagination.

The evening’s program was divided into three main parts. The first, “The Three Stooges,” was a farcical sketch in which the members of the troupe, dressed as the famous comedy team, performed a series of zany antics that had the audience in stitches. The second part, “The Three Musketeers,” was a musical-comedy revue that featured songs, dances, and a bit of swordplay, all performed with great enthusiasm and skill.

The finale of the evening was the third part of the program, “The Three Stooges,” which was a hilarious send-up of the classic comedy team. The audience was treated to a series of classic Stooge routines, expertly performed by the troupe members. The laughter was non-stop, and the audience gave a standing ovation for the troupe’s final number, a parody of one of the Stooge’s most famous routines.

The entire production was a triumph of unity and imagination. The troupe members worked together flawlessly, each bringing their own unique talent to the table. The results were a production that was both entertaining and thought-provoking, a true testament to the skill and creativity of the Western Players.

Carlton H. Clark

The University of Kentucky’s annual Players Production, “Trio ‘57,” was a resounding success, and the troupe members should take pride in their achievement. The production was a true collaboration of talent, and the final result was a work of art that will be remembered for years to come.

The technical staff, under the guidance of Betty Gage Jones as stage manager, worked tirelessly to ensure that every detail was perfect. The set design was breathtaking, and the costumes were both stylish and appropriate. The lighting and sound were masterfully handled, and the audience was completely immersed in the world of the production.

The audience was treated to a variety of performances, from the comedic antics of “The Three Stooges” to the musical talents of “The Three Musketeers.” Each piece had its own unique appeal, and the entire evening was a testament to the creativity and hard work of the troupe members.

The Western Players should be proud of their achievement, and the audience should be grateful for the opportunity to experience such a wonderful production. The troupe members have shown that they are true professionals, and their talents and hard work should be recognized for all to see.
