Matriculation

The opening of the fall semester of school 1967 will mark a high point in Western's progress as a college, and as a college Western will be taking part in a recognised surge on the part of young men and women to obtain a higher education.

Western will be part of a larger pattern of growth as Western is developing its resources and opportunities within the past twelve months the Herald has given ample space on its pages to this growth. May we in this column work toward our increasing to Western for the first time when the doors open on the fall semester.

You will be part of the national trend of men and women who are seeking higher training in our nation's colleges and universities. Though the student body is becoming more diverse in its background, we hope that each individual student may continue to remember standards that he has set for himself and that he will live up to the basic standards that the college has established.

Colleges are really centered in helping ideals and past heritage. We want you to be a part of Western for the first time.

The New Phase

In its long history, Western has never had a more consistent year of progress than the 1966-67 term. This next year promises completion of plans started this past year and new studies to be made toward taking care of increasing Western's student population with an increase in student enrollment.

A new phase has begun at Western, and a new atmosphere. New classes are starting and new students to the campus and returning ones from last year and visiting alumni members will be able to see the changes. Students will be proud of the new atmosphere and this spirit of progress can be seen on campus now. Given a period of years, this same spirit will have realized even greater values for Western.

January 9, 1925

On January 9, 1925 the campus newspaper hit the hill with the headlines, "The College Heights Herald Makes Debut," and in a column to the extreme right of the front page a notice proclaimed that the new newspaper was born at one of the greatest chapel services ever held. The first edition carried the name of the editor, our own Miss Richards, and a student, and associate editor, for the staff.

"To the entire edition breathe with the spirit of the newly created venture. On the editorial page was a picture of the editor and her staff and its present day staff. May we quote briefly from this editorial entitled "News and College Life."

"One of the main purposes of this paper is to keep all students in touch with the affairs of the college. In the past this has been done with the hope that the publication of news and activities is connected with it, even of importance is taken off the hill which are unknown to many of our students and that the activities now maintained and in closer touch with each other, with the people of the college and Western. All of us have maintained the school and with outside interests.

"By establishment of a student paper, it is hoped that a more intimate touch can be maintained with the thousands of students who have attended school here in the past. Many were here years ago but have been lost touch with the institution, and by means of a school paper it is hoped to bring them to know a little of its development."
Dr. Crabb Writes New Book On Early Nashville

By ROBERT BRICK WATERS

From a tiny fort on the bank of the Cumberland River, a great city grew. Dr. Crabb will tell the story in his latest work. Journey to Nashville.

This book is more than the history of a settlement. It is a live account of the founders themselves, their hardships and their moments of joy.

Nashville was really born in the Watauga settlements of eastern Tennessee. Each Robinson, pioneer adventurer, had lived what he saw in the Cumberland River country of middle Tennessee. He and Jane Dolson organized a band of settlers and prepared to leave for the bluffs on which they planned to settle.

Robertson Leads Party

Robertson led the overland party of the men and women, going through Cumberland Gap, across Kentucky and then down to the present site of Nashville. Their journey was in the dead of winter and man and animal alike suffered many hardships along the way. The overland trip took almost two months.

Meanwhile Dolson was preparing to leave by flat-bottomed boat with the women, children, and household possessions. Because of the severe cold and treacherous weather, and the party was delayed for weeks, the Delson party had to face the dangers of cold and lack of food. But the overland and overwater menace of the Indians. That part of the journey took about five months.

Two new members will join Western's teaching staff beginning with the fall semester according to an announcement by President Thompson. These appointments were made in the departments of geography and industrial arts.

Joining the faculty as a member of the Geography and Geology Department in the fall will be Claude E. Pickard. He was graduated from Western with an AB degree in geography in 1963. He received the MA degree in geography from the University of Nebraska in 1968.

Owen Lawson, Jr., who formerly served as shop foreman of the industrial arts department of Western in 1953-54, will join the fall staff of the Industrial Arts Department. Lawson received the BA degree from Western in 1944, and the MA degree in 1967. Since 1966, Pickard has been

Two-Week KFL Labor School Closes Today

The yearly two-week school conducted by the Kentucky Federation of Labor which was held on the Western campus this year ended today.

Campus Improvement Continues At Rapid Rate On Hill

Expansion, improvement, repair and addition of existing facilities have been progressing at a rapid rate on Hill.

Evidence of this look to the Tu- tor preparatory school, for example, where every place on the campus, the Memorial Environary on Fifth Street in front of the library is completed and was dedicated at spring commencement.

This major development commemorating Western's fifteenth anniversary was built at a cost of $60,000.

It was largely financed by the College Heights Foundation.

New Dormitories Open.

Two of the dormitories for men were occupied the beginning of the second semester this year. These two beautiful buildings which provide housing for 408 men cost approximately $150,000.

New water lines and the improvement of existing water lines is complete. That project was started last December. Some 200 feet of additional fire hose and 1,500 feet of 4-inch lines have been installed. Seven new fire hydrants, easily accessible to fire-fighting equipment, have been added which provides adequate protection against fire. This project cost approximately $20,000.

Architect Frank Carie and Associates have completed plans for for converting Potter Hall into a dormitory for women. Work is underway on this residence and will be completed in time for occupancy next September. Reservations are already being reserved for next fall.

New Service Building.

Robert L. Johnson, Owensboro architect, are now working plans and specifications for a new service building. Plans and specifications should be ready and submitted to the contractors within three weeks enabling this project to get underway by not later than Sept. 1. The building will be located facing the Russellville Road near the heating plant.

It will provide a receiving and distributing central point for supplies purchased by the college. It will also house the electrical shop, the plumbing shop, carpentry shop, the paint shop, and other maintenance.

Landscaping.

Landscaping the area around the new dormitories is almost completed. All trees, shrubs and flowers have been planted with new shrubs and trees being added for the entire lower area.

A 15-car parking lot is being constructed along the road west to Chestnut Street. The curbs and in and the application of rocks and surfacing is to be done by the end of the month. The plan has been cleared and will be landscaped. Most of the work has been done on improving the Russellville Road and Chestnut Street. This area has been cleared of trees and shrubs and a new street will be constructed.

A general program of landscaping and beautification is in progress across the entire campus.

The new $120,000 boiler was installed last month and will be ready for testing in the near future. It is hoped that this new facility provides the campus with ample steam and will take care of any fuel allowance. The old boiler has been removed.

The new steam lines have been completed and put on standby heat in order to be ready for use. There is no danger in a break down in the equipment. The new boiler will provide benefit from the new boiler, which will be larger than the old boiler. The elimination of smoke and ash will keep the area clean.

New Time System.

A new time electrical signal system has been installed. The entire campus is divided into sections with a master clock located in the transformer room which will be automatically timed from Western Union. Tests were run during the week of July 1. Clucks and bells will be installed in every building on the campus.

An reproduction and repair program at the College farm located four miles south of campus on the Nashville Road is rapidly nearing completion. Farm build-

New window air-conditioning units and other architectural installations are being put in first class buildings. The parapat, stop, the Phil L. Garrett Student Center has been completely repaired.

An improved program of maintenance and repair for all campus physical facilities is underway which calls for work in a number of buildings this summer.

Transportation.

At the Training School the gymnasium has been completely remodeled. Student tables have been reconstructed by the Industrial Arts Department. Several rooms in the Training School have been reconditioned.

A completely new hot water system is being installed in the building.

New lighting facilities are being installed in two rooms used for testing, remedial work, and the laboratory. Several valuable and useful instructional aids have been added for use in audio-visual education. A driver education program has been started.

The entire playground area at the Training School is being paved with new tile. Additional projects to be completed this summer are the installation of lights, the repair of lockers throughout the building, the landscaping of flower beds, the new tile in the library, the conversion of the sub-basement into a boys' dressing room, the installation of glass backboards in the gymnasium, and a general over-all program of painting and repairing. Considerable improvement at the Training School is still not on the schedule and should be completed by the opening of the fall term.

College Library.

Tables in the main college library reading rooms have been refinished by the Industrial Arts Department. Reading rooms and halls have been redecorated. A great deal of additional shelving has been built in the library to take care of the overcrowded conditions in the storage areas.

Some of the offices at South Hall have been redecorated, and other such work is scheduled to be done this summer.

The Military department at the Physical Education Building has been completed and remodeling to provide for the expansion and improvement of their physical facilities, with improved and finished classrooms.

The concrete walks, steps, and sidewalks and retaining walls over the entire campus are being checked.

A new service elevator is on its way.

New Men's Dorms Offer Pleasant Living Quarters

A proud part of the recent improvements made on Western's campus include the two spacious men's dorms, East and South Halls. Ar- ranged on three floors in each building, the residence was efficiently opened at the beginning of last semester. Pictures above are from the new halls.

Students at Western have always been accepted equally as far as the sexes are concerned but the women in the past have been able to claim one better in the matter of living facilities on campus. Through the efforts of student and faculty Greer Hall and the beauti- ful McLean Hall dormitory life has been a joy to the female ele- ments.

This coming school year the men on campus can equal grade in three living quarters. After a number of years of dorm life in Peter Hall, a transformation has taken place through the erection of the handsome East and South Halls for each sex.

These two buildings begun in December of 1964 and costing ap- proximately one million eight hundred thousand dollars were officially put into use at the beginning of the spring semester of 1967. Con-structed in a tree-shaded natural setting on the southeastern sec- tion of the campus the dormitories surpass the finest in campus res- idences.

Though the buildings were designed to fit into Western's cam- pus look of lasting quality they are ultra-modern in a tame to a modern style. Each dorm contains 144 beds with direct-entrance from the front and back to the living area. Students can gain $2.50 a week per person. Each dorm has a lounge and 600-yard laundromat on the ground level, a kitchen on the ground level, a laundry and wash area on the second floor, a library, and a basketball court. The dorms are noted for their economy and efficiency and will soon be a favorite with the students.

Prospective students for the incoming classes are advised that each dorm has a room in either dormitory by mailing to the President's Office a $50.00 reservation fee. The room for each student will be assigned after the reservation form is received and the student's name is placed in the dormitory for the fall semester. The cost of the room for the fall semester is $50.00.

8 Staff Members Reste This Summer

A total of 750 of service to Western's staff were the eight staff members who retired effective May 1.

Those retiring were R. C. Wool- ward, 4th Infantry; Mrs. A. S. Coulter, 10th Infantry; Mrs. L. W. Whipple, General; O. L. A. Brown, 11th Infantry; Mrs. L. R. T. Young, 1st Infantry; R. C. Woodward, superintendent of the peacetime general hospital in Western at 41 years. He came to the college on Jan. 1, 1919.

W. R. Hill, field representative of the Community College of Western, joined the staff May 15, 1929.

Van twentieth planed in addition to the summer plan described concerning Western's growth and progress, college of- ficials are now studying plans for more student housing on the campus made possible by the $300,000 earmarked by the Board of the Commonwealth of Kentucky last summer. The college will be partially financed through the sale of bonds to the Federal Housing Finance Agency. Pur- chases of land for the future growth and expansion of Western are also being studied.
Summer Conference On Campus

Sam Alexander, assistant superintendent of Jefferson County for business affairs, was elected president for the coming year at Western's 50th annual Summer Conference for Superintendents held on the campus Friday, July 15.

Attendance at the conference this year was the largest in the history of this annual meeting.

The conference, an official meeting as designed by Dr. Robert R. Martin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, presented a discussion of some of the critical issues involved with the improvement of education in Kentucky. A filmstrip demonstration took place at 10:30 a.m. in Van Matre Auditorium.

An informal afternoon session was held at the Mammoth Cave National Park picnic grounds. This session was attended by an approximate 600 persons who met June 1 at 10:00 a.m. at the picnic grounds. No scheduled speeches or conferences were arranged for this session in order that those attending would have ample time for private discussion of educational problems with fellow educators.

In the evening, the attendees were brought through Mammoth Cave, the world's longest cavern system, which is in the possession of the national park grounds.

Transportation to and from the cave was provided by buses for those who were staying in the area during the conference.

When the Conference was organized, it was held primarily for county superintendents. In 1941 it was expanded to include superintendents of independent districts. Kelly Thompson, president of Western, sent 600 letters inviting the superintendents of the state to the conference.

Night of January 16.

Last Monday and Tuesday the audience witnessed the play's presentation of Andy Rice’s “Night of January 16.” This was the story of the tragic trial of Karen Morgan for the murder of her employer, Queen Payton. Conflicting testimony given by the many witnesses who appeared and Miss Andrea's frequent exhortations to the mounting tension at the trial proceeded. The realism was so great that when the jur-
