 Patients to pay to see doctor

By ALAN JUDD

Patients at the university health clinic will have to pay a $3 fee beginning Monday to be treated by the one doctor who still works there. The clinic's schedule also will be changed.

The $3 fee is to help pay for two doctors who are to be hired and to make the clinic more self-sufficient, Dr. John Minton, administrative affairs vice president, said Tuesday.

Dr. Howard Zeigel is the only doctor at the clinic. Dr. Jim Goodman resigned effective July 1. The same day, the Board of Regents authorized the hiring of a third doctor at the clinic, and two doctors will now be hired.

"As a part of the move to get a third physician, that fee was approved by the board," Minton said.

The schedule is being changed because the remaining doctor would not be able to be on call 24 hours a day, Minton said.

"Normal office hours of the clinic will be the same," he said. "But the one physician that we have on call will be on call up to 6:30 in the evening."

"After 6:30 we will have the nurse and stand-by staff (usually a student assistant and a nurse). They will assist the student in being referred out or whatever," Minton said.

"With only one physician, we will have to depend more on referring out until we get another physician."

Most emergency cases are referred to Bowling Green-Warren County Hospital or to local doctors.

This schedule will be in effect until a doctor is hired. The old schedule, with a physician on call 24 hours, remains in effect the rest of this week.

Minton said the one doctor will still treat patients already admitted to the clinic, but no patients will be admitted on weekends.

The reason the doctor will be on call until 6:30 is that most recreational activities are finished by that time, Minton said.

"We have found, particularly as we move into the first of the semester with all the activities going on, that 6:30 in the evening takes care of many of the infractions."

He said that if the doctor stays on call until that time, not as many cases of injuries received during recreational activities will have to be referred to a hospital.

Minton said it is hard to tell whether the number of cases will be reduced at the clinic when the fee goes into effect.

"I doubt that it will have much effect. But it may have an effect on the person who might just go by for something he ordinarily wouldn't go by for."

"If it did that, it might be a more positive effect by making one go by for something he ordinarily wouldn't go by for."

Operation ID offers added security

By TERRI DARR

Security against theft has increased because of a relatively new crime-prevention program at the university, according to Judy Sparks, campus police crime prevention officer.

A program called Operation Identification has helped reduce crime, Ms. Sparks said.

"For crime to take place, three elements must be present: desire, ability and opportunity. We reduce desire and ability through Operation ID, but reducing opportunity is up to the individual," she said.

Students and faculty can obtain an engraving tool from the campus police. The tools are used to engrave Social Security numbers on personal items such as cameras, televisions and bicycles.

The markings are registered with the department and records are kept on computer. When stolen items are recovered, the engraving is traced and the item is returned to the owner. The state-funded program is free to the campus community and is available 24 hours a day.

Each person who has registered the belongings he has engraved receives a sticker that indicates that the property has been marked.

"This serves as a deterrent against theft, because if a thief sees the 'Operation ID sticker, he'll think twice about taking something," Ms. Sparks said.

We were wrong

Because of editing errors, a story in Tuesday's Herald incorrectly gave the location of the university placement office as the alumni center. The center is in Florence Schneider Hall.

A story in Tuesday's Herald incorrectly said Greek rushers must be registered with the Interfraternity Council to attend rush parties. Rushers must only register with the council to receive invitations to the parties.

Chi O issue going to board

Chi Omega sorority Tuesday came one step closer to buying a house at 501 University Blvd. when the city commission voted 5-0 to change the zoning of the property.

Unless citizens opposed to the rezoning decide to appeal the decision, the matter will go before the adjustments board, the city-county Planning and Zoning Commission's appeal board. The Chi Omega sisters plan to buy the house to allow the property to be used as a sorority house.

The biggest problem with thefts is with people who carelessly leave their belongings laying around," she said. "It's hard to convince them that it only takes a few seconds for someone to take something."

Next year' is now for Feix, Tops

By DON WHITE

Time's up for the football program. The "next year" in the "wait till next year" statements of pride and reassurance that were often heard last fall around Smith Stadium has arrived.

The 1977 inexperienced are now the 1978 "veterans." The injured that watched Western win one of 10 games last season are now the rehabilitated.

And coach Jimmy Feix hopes it all means that you can't keep a good man, namely himself, down for long.

The "next year" for Feix actually began before the 1977 season ended. Western, which started five freshmen and three sophomores on offense in its final game last season, was rebounding from the 1-9-1 season before it ended.

"We're on schedule and I've seen a great deal of improvement," Feix said after his team had completed its eighth day of fall practice. "I'm not disappointed with the prospects. We're a second-year team and we're maybe a year away from being as dominating as we want to be. "Right now, I'd be tickled to death with a 6-4 season.

To win this season, Feix believes Western must get the most out of its experienced players. With the 65-scholarship limit in football in the Ohio Valley Conference, Western is continually faced with a depth problem. The depth this season will have to come from freshmen.

To use the talents of his most experienced players and to stop some of the problems that plagued the 1977 team, Feix installed the four-deep defensive set and the I-formation offense during spring practice.

"Today's offense have caught up with the split-four three-deep secondaries," Feix said. "By going to the four-deep, we'll be essentially sacrificing size for speed in the hopes that it will shut off the big plays that hurt us so much last season." Twenty-three of the opponents' 34 touchdowns last season came on plays of longer than 10 yards. With the four-deep secondary, Western will use three down linemen and four linebackers. The most pressure of stopping the run is on the outside linebackers, the positions on Western's defense that are manned by the most experienced players.

Feix abandoned the split backfield in favor of the return to the "I" because of the availability of two strong fullbacks, Edner Caldwell and George "Flip" Stevenson. The "I" is a tailback-oriented offense that offers more play-action options than the twin-tailback set.

Tailback Jimmy Woods (6-foot-1, 180 pounds), who has rushed for 2,168 yards at Western, will be a key figure in the new set. Woods averaged 90.6 yards rushing per game last season, fifth best in the nation among the Division I-AA backs who return for the 1978 season. The other tailbacks are sophomores Nate Jones (6-3, 210) and Craig Freeman (5-7, 170). Jones gained 154 yards rushing last season. 13 fewer than Freeman.

Stevenson (6-foot-10, 200), is a transfer from Mississippi Valley State, and will share the fullback duties with Caldwell (6-1, 185), a freshman from Hickman County. The starting quarterback will be John Hall (6-0 190), a sophomore from White House, Tenn., who completed 27-of-54 passes for 275 yards as a part-time starter last season.

Hall will be backed up by Marty Jaggers, a red-shirt, last season.

Ricky Gwinn (6-3, 210) returns as the starting tight end. Gwinn caught 17 passes for 195 yards last season. He'll be backed up by Kirby Bennett (6-0, 210), a part-time starter as a freshman in 1976 who missed last season with a knee injury.

The split end is Eddie Preston (6-0, 160), the team's leading receiver last year with 28 catches for 476 yards and seven touchdowns. Feix said getting the ball to Preston on deep pass routes will be key to Western's success this season.

The flanker is Darryl Drake (6-3, 180), among the fastest on the team with a 40-yard dash time of 4.6 seconds. Drake caught three passes as a reserve last season.

Jeff Alan (6-2, 220), a preseaon All-OVC pick, leads the young offensive line that includes sophomores tackles Tim Beresiter (6-2, 215) and Phil Rich

Second-team all-conference tackle Mike Ross (6-4, 245) will be the mainstay of an inexperienced offensive line that will count heavily on several junior college transfers.

Wideouts Steve Puthoff and Steve Bullard return along with quarterback Randy Christophel, who completed 57 of 135 passes for 823 yards and six touchdowns last season.

Tailback Cosmo Cochran (6-0, 185), who averaged 5.6 yards on 91 carries last year, should bolster the backfield that will be missing fullback Waddell Whitehead and tailback Corvus Moody, who combined to rush for almost 1,400 yards last year.

3 Division I-A foes to challenge Tops

Western has a combined 19-5-2 record against the three non-Ohio Valley Conference teams it plays this season, but the Hilltoppers won't have an easy time when they venture out of the OVC in 1976. All three of Western's non-conference games are with Division I-A teams of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The Toppers competed in the 37-team Division I-AA, which receives fewer scholarships than Division I-A.

Western opens the season at home Sept. 9 against the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, then travels to Normal, Ill., to play Illinois State. The Toppers also play East Tennessee, which left the OVC in June and joined the Southern Conference.

Western has split its two games with UTC since 1976. The Toppers lost, 27-3, last season after winning, 10-7, the year before.

The Toppers have played Illinois State once, winning, 24-14, in 1975.

Danny Lee Johnson (6-0, 197) returns at fullback. He led the team in rushing last season with 565 yards.

Tight end David Thomas (29 catches, 404 yards) returns along with speedsters Austin Perine and Doug Shelton, who will be moved to wideout positions.

Fewer injuries are expected on new grass

A $12,000 sodding project at the Smith Stadium playing field could mean a reduction in injuries to football players, said coach Jimmy Feix and athletic trainer Ron Dunn.

The project, begun after the field's bermuda grass was damaged by two harsh winters, was finished in late June and involved the transplantation of a special hybrid mixture of bermuda, said Claude Thrashfield, superintendent of landscaping.

"The new playing surface will be a great boost to the players' morale, and will make the game easier to play and watch," Feix said. "The bermuda will be a lot better in reducing injuries than the old grass or Astroturf."

Dunn said the new surface has been a major factor in the reduction of shin splints and other injuries in the first week of football practice.

"It is more level and will cut down on the number of bruises and knee injuries. We've had hardly any shin splint problems and I think the new surface will play a big role in cutting down other injuries.

Thrashfield said the hybrid bermuda strip is the combination of two grasses and was recommended by the South Turf Hybrid Grass Co. of Tifton, Ga. The company is the nation's largest supplier of hybrid grass to stadiums and golf courses and Southern Conference. Coach Joe Morrison's squad is ranked in the nation's top 20 major college teams in at least one preseason poll.

Quarterback Tony Merendino and running backs Mike Smith and Gwain Durden, both of whom rushed for more than 1,000 yards last season, lead the list of seven returning offensive starters from a team that ranked sixth in the nation in rushing offense in 1977.

Smith and Durden combined for 190 yards and three touchdowns against Western last season.

Junior Greg Casyer, who has a 43.1-yard career punting average, could be one of the nation's top punters.

East Tennessee

Depth and inexperience will plague coach Jack Carlisle, although the return of quarterback Mark Hutensell and running backs Greg Wilson and Jimmy Dykes should bolster the offense that ranked fourth in the OVC last season.

Hutensell completed 65 of 102 passes for 795 yards and Wilson averaged 5.8 yards a carry for the 1977 team that finished 3-6.

Mitch Davis (6-2, 240) leads the returning offensive linemen, although replacements for All-OVC wide receiver Dennis Law and second-team all-conference offensive tackle Rick Shoemaker will have to be found.

The Bucs return five starters among the linebackers and defensive backs, but Carlisle's biggest problem will be improving his defensive unit which gave up averages of 427 yards and 32 points a game last season.

Gamble
Hessel expects big dividends from risk

By DON WHITE

Del Hessel thinks his big gamble of a year ago may soon begin to return long-term dividends.

And if it does, the result could be more national recognition for Western's cross country program.

Hessel, beginning his third season as Western's cross country coach, redshirted his top two runners last season after injuries during the summer hampered their training.

Although the two, Dave Long and Jon Slaughter, recovered during the fall, Hessel chose not to enter them in late-season meets. His plan was to save their year's eligibility rather than enter them in meets during a season when East Tennessee State and Murray fielded strong Ohio Valley Conference teams.

At the time, it appeared to have been a costly risk. Western, minus its top runners, Bob Swann, who was injured in a freak fall minutes before the conference race, finished fourth in-the-OVC, its worst showing in six years.

But as the 1978 season nears and Long and Slaughter return healthy and ready to run, Hessel is confident he made the right decision.

"That decision is definitely going to pay off," he said. "I'm really excited about coaching this year. I haven't been this excited about coaching a team in two or three years, or longer."

"Our goals this season are three. First, to win the conference. Secondly, to qualify for the national championships by finishing in the top four in the regionals and, thirdly, to finish in the top 15 in the NCAA."

Long, who was an All-American as a freshman when he finished 23rd in the nationals, has been troubled by injuries throughout his career at Western, but enters the team's training period on 70-mile weekly training schedule.

Slaughter was the fifth man on the 1978 team that finished 14th in the nation.

Long, Slaughter, Swann, sophomore Ron Becht and freshman

Jim Groves are expected to be Western's scorers this season.

Swann was the team's most consistent runner last season, finishing no lower than ninth in four meets before the OVC championships. The sophomore from Binghampton, England, injured his back when he slipped on wet grass warming up for the OVC meet and was forced to withdraw from the race. Western finished fourth behind East Tennessee State and Murray and Eastern.

Becht, a sophomore from Canada, was 17th in the OVC meet.

Groves, who finished 10th in the Junior World Cross Country Championships in Scotland last year, has run a 4:06 mile and an 8:50 for two miles.

"Groves is as good a quality athlete as any we've recruited from England," Hessel said. "He's a great competitor and has his head into the race."

Western has had four All-American cross-country runners from Britain, including Long.

Sophomores Tim Brooks, Mike Clay and Chris Payne and freshman George Connor will add

Coach supports Long's comeback

By ROGER STINNETT

Life has not been all peaches and sweet cream for Dave Long since he walked off the 1974 NCAA cross country championship course an All-American.

It seemed then that the tall, blond Englishman had a golden future ahead of him after finishing 13th among hundreds of runners in that, his freshman year.

Long had ability and racing intelligence. Three more cross country All-American honors seemed easily within his reach, not to mention what he might do in indoor and outdoor track competition.

No one who watched Long on that cold, wet day knew everything would be changed by his stepping in a gopher hole in the first race of his sophomore season. But he did, and burrs set in. After a painful season, he finished 151st in the 1975 National Collegiate Athletic Association meet.

He had surgery four months later, and things seemed better when he came back for his junior year. He finished second in the 1976 conference and district championships and seemed assured of a high finish in the nationals. Instead, he became sick the night before the race. "He got out of bed with a 102-degree fever," coach Del Hessel recalled. "Long managed only a 164th finish."

He rebounded from that disappointment to surpass the NCAA qualifying time for the 10,000-meter race by more than 40 seconds—29:09—for one of 7 freshman added depth to the team, Hessel said.

Brooks and Clay competed for Western last season, but were III.

Payne, a transfer from Carson-Newman College, was the Eagles' top runner in 1976.

Seven other freshmen were added to the team, and Hessel thinks the team's five sophomores will help pace the younger runners' training progression.

"They (last year's freshmen) have learned a lot about handling workouts and competition," Hessel said. "They're not going to kill themselves in practice this year and they'll be a good influence on the new freshmen."

Hessel's training program will stress three or four weeks of endurance running, then four weeks of building stamina, and finally four weeks of speed work.

East Tennessee, which finished seventh in the nationals last year, is no longer in the OVC. Murray, which finished 14th in the NCAA, returns four strong English runners, but lost three other high-scoring Britons.

TONIGHT 7:00
Practice begins this week for the women's cross country team, and coach Carla Coffey can't help but think the team is bound to improve.

The team's best finish last year was eight of 10 teams. But that was when "we were lucky to have seven people at a time," she said.

Eleven women attended the first team meeting Monday, including a group of eager-to-compete freshmen.

"We're still building a foundation," Ms. Coffey said, this week, as the team prepared for its third year of competition.

Vicky Holway, a Centralia, Ill., junior is the top returning runner. Holway led the team in most of its matches.

The team last year lacked depth, she said, and didn't compete as a group.

"This year they will be running more as a unit," Ms. Coffey said.

Other returning veterans are Jane Terrell of Louisville, Kathy Vannatter of Bee Springs and Ellie Matheny of Madisonville.

Ms. Coffey said most of the freshmen competed in cross country in high school. But she said many high schools have just recently started teams.

Cathy-Anne Hyde, of Bay Shore, N.Y., heads the list of seven freshmen. Also expected to contribute to the team are Erika Christeferson of Richfield, Minn.; Kim Crispell of Brandon, Manitoba, Canada; and Karen Horn of Frankfurt.

Marlene Meredith of Morgantown, Terry Strickland of Philo, Ill., and Gail Christeferson of Bay Shore, Ohio, are the other freshmen on the team.

The runners started formal practice Tuesday and will work their way up to an average of 8 to 10 miles a day in preparation for the 5,000-meter races.

re-sodded more than 120 stadium fields last year, Threlkeld said.

"The last two hard winters killed our bermuda grass," Threlkeld said. "But the hybrid mixture is supposed to grow as far north as Indianapolis without dying in the winters."

Threlkeld said Western received the sod in 12 shipments between June 6 and June 28. He said the sod was cut in Tifton during the day and loaded onto trucks which drove all night to bring the sod to Bowling Green.

Threlkeld said six physical plant workers laid the 12 loads of sod.

He said the grass will be kept between 3 and 4 inches tall during the football season. "When it gets tall, we'll measure it and cut it back to about an inch."

Bucs tough, coach says

Last year's National Rifle Association champion, East Tennessee, remains the team to beat this fall, according to coach John Baker.

"If we can get by them, we will be all right," Baker said.

But the 10-member rifle squad also must concentrate on improving their performance in the All-American Inter-Collegiate Rifle league. The team changed from NRA standards to those of the International Shooters Union this season.

Baker said 70 percent of rifle's All-Americans are on the All-American Inter-Collegiate Rifle team.

WKU STUDENT QUIZ:

Giving away a genuine WKU Flyer to every student who opens a new ANB Savings or Checking account is:

☐ 1. Blatantly commercial.
☐ 2. Disarmingly candid.
☐ 3. Engagingly attractive.
☐ 4. All of the above.

The correct answer is "Four." We want your business, so we're offering you a little something extra. Here's the deal. Open a new ANB checking or savings account by Sept. 30. And we'll hand you an official WKU Humphrey Flyer along with your checkbook or passbook. It's that simple. You give us a whirl, and we give you a whirl.

Offer limited to registered WKU students; expires Sept 30, 1978.

the fastest times of 1977.
But again, he fell victim to bad fortune. He caught an infection in his side shortly before the NCAA meet. "He could barely breathe," Hassel said.

Then, in the summer, doctors discovered scar tissue and calcium deposits on the base of his Achilles tendon. Another operation followed, and Long was rehabilitated for the 1977 cross country season.
Now, four years after becoming an All-American, Long hopes to realize some of that golden future.

"There's no greater fan of Dave than me," Hassel said.
"He's a fighter, he's not a quitter.
He's one of the most intelligent competitors I've ever seen. He's as good as any Englishman who ever ran at Western. He's just had nagging injuries." Long said his ankle is "holding up well" under average miles about 70 miles a week, which is what he ran while living in England during the summer. But whether or not Hassel can predict how it will perform if Long attempts 100 miles a week.

"After so many bouts with injury, you can't help but be conscious of hurting it again," Hassel said. "I'd rather have Dave at three-quarters or seven-eighths top fitness than not have Dave at all. If I have to rest him to peak him, I will. But he's an older kid, so if he's doing 70 miles a week, it gives me time to peak him out."

Long said that "if things go as expected, I should do quite well, but I can't stick my neck out and say, 'I want to be in the top 60 in the NCAA.'"

Long though Hassel said, "You feel like keeping him in a cage, letting him out to run and then putting him back in the cage." Long said he plans to not worry about it:
"I'll just take each race as it comes. I could get injured worrying about it, so I'll try not to think about it."

"I don't think Dave's All-American as a freshman was a fluke," said Hassel. "I've heard coaches say that he'll never run that well again, but I don't accept it. It's just that something always goes wrong. If God would just give him a break. He deserves a better opportunity."

Freshman Sandy Leslie of the women's tennis team strains on a two-fisted backhand.

Seniors strengthen Tops

By BETTH TAYLOR

With all of its six seeded players back and the state tournament here in October, the outlook is bright for Western's women's tennis team.

"I'm especially glad we have the KCIC (Kentucky Women's Interscholastic Conference) since we have three seniors on the team," Hilltoppers coach Betty Langley said.

The seniors are Katy Sztuadas Tinog, Shelley Fredlake and Suzanne Johnson. Western has compiled a 5-5 dual meet record since they joined the team. Last year, they led Western to a tie for first in the state meet and a championship in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Only Tarrie Mudwiller is gone from last year's 1-3 Tops. Tinog was No. 1 last year, followed by Fredlake. The two also made up the No. 1 doubles team. The coach is deciding on a penalty for Tinog, who says she will miss the Eastern match in September. Tinog and a former Western player, Hasan Oezdemir, have advanced to the 24-team national finals in the Lipton Ice Tea mixed doubles tournament, to be played the same weekend as the Eastern match.

Miss Langley said Tinog told her Tuesday that she definitely would play in the Houston tournament.

"I have no more comments to make until a decision is reached and no decision has been made at this time. It will be weeks (before the decision is made)," Miss Langley said.

The coach refused to discuss what penalty if any will be imposed on Tinog if she misses the matches with Eastern and Southern Illinois.

"She has not violated anything"

The 13-member women’s golf team is the largest ever, and coach Shirley Laney predicts that size will help the team.

“Any competition among the team members will help everyone’s game,” Laney said, adding that the Nos. 4 and 5 positions will not be “bowed up” this year.

Beth Taylor, an Elizabethtown senior, Lee Ann Toftness, an Owenton sophomore and Melissa Leson, a Bowling Green junior, will lead the squad, which is almost twice the size of last year’s team.

Taylor, who was last year’s low average trophy winner, will compete but has turned down a scholarship offer. Taylor said she thought it would be unfair to the team to accept the scholarship, since outside activities will keep her from practicing as much as other golfers.

Toftness appears to have the inside track for the No. 1 position. She was medalist with a 78 at the Kentucky State Amateur Tournament in Paintsville earlier this year.

Leson placed second in the consolation flight.

Dr. Laney said she expects Janet Bolle, a Richmond, Ind., sophomore, to be one of the team’s most improved players.

She has finished fourth or better in seven tournaments this summer, and was second in the championship flight of the Indiana State Amateur tournament, which is considered one of the toughest in the country.

Bolley played in the No. 6 position last year for the Topper.

Susan Mercke, a freshman from Louisville who attended Sacred Heart Academy, is the most recent signee.

Mercke, who also played in the championship flight of the Kentucky State Amateur tournament, joins two other freshmen signees, Lisa Bradshaw and Sevona Williams. Bradshaw and Williams committed themselves to Western after playing on the Green County High School team, which finished third in the state last year.

Dr. Laney expects walkons Nancy Neil, a Gallatin, Tenn., freshman, and Sandy Douglas, a Henderson freshman, to complete the Topper roster.

The team’s first match will be in Roone, N.C., Sept. 11-12 in the Blue Ridge Invitational.

3 All-OVC picks return on defense

(6-4, 230), sophomore center Greg Gallia (6-3, 220) and sophomore guard Pete Waller (6-5, 240).

Junior Pat Gates (6-3, 220) is the team's "most valuable lineman," Feix said, as the reserve at all four guard and tackle positions.

Preseason All-OVC picks Reggie Hayden, Carl Estelle and Fred Kilmiller lead the defensive returnees. Hayden is the strong-side outside linebacker, and Estelle is the outside linebacker on the weak side.

Hayden, the team's captain, led the squad in tackles for losses (13) last season, and Estelle has been the team's fourth-leading tackle for the last two years.

The three starting down linemen are nose tackle Tony Wells (6-9, 186), All-OVC defensive end Tony Towns (6-2, 220) and junior Alfred Roan (6-2, 230).

Towns led the conference in tackles for losses in 1976 and was fourth in 1977. The interior linebackers are freshmen Mark Koschel (6-1, 215) of Jasper, Ind., Lonnie Hardin (6-0, 200), Charles DeLacy (6-1, 215) and Dave Cross (6-1, 205), a freshman from Newburg, Ind.

Hardin, a starting defensive end last season, is recovering from an ankle injury and probably will not practice with the team for several weeks, Feix said.

Kilmiller (6-0, 175), the only player besides Woods who played on the 1976 team that finished second in the nation in Division II, will start at left cornerback.

Carl Bradly (6-10, 270), will start at right cornerback where he has been a reserve for two seasons, and junior Ron Colier (6-1, 180), a transfer from Jackson State, will be the free safety along with last year's starter Mark Stahl (6-1, 175).

Craig Smith (6-10, 186), a reserve linebacker last fall, will be the strong safety.

The team's place kicker is sophomore Marvin Davis, the kickoff specialist last season. The punter is sophomore Ray Farmer, who averaged 48.7 yards on 55 kicks last season.

"My biggest concern is that we stay healthy," Feix said, "That's my secret, quiet concern - and my biggest worry."

"But I have a genuine excitement," the 11th-year coach added, "This is the great thing about athletics - you can be externally optimistic. It's that 'wait till next year' attitude."

And now it's 'next year.'
7,000 to participate in IM

More than 7,000 students and faculty members will participate in organized intramural sports this semester, Max Appel, men's intramurals coordinator, said.

Anybody interested in participating in women's intramurals can attend a sign-up meeting Sept. 5 in Diddle Arena.

Debby Cherwak, who is in her first year as women's co-recreation and intramurals director, said she plans to "do everything possible to get people to participate in intramurals."

She said she does not plan any major changes in programs, but will emphasize participation. "With more people participating, we can expect bigger and better things."

Mr. Cherwak plans "less competition and more socialization" in the co-recreational programs this year.

"With all the competition with their own sex, I feel it should be a time to relax and enjoy the sports."

Coach inherits young team

By BETH TAYLOR

The men's golf team has a new coach, but he's certainly not a stranger. Jim Richards, men's basketball coach for the past seven years, has taken over as golf coach for Frank Griffin, who retired.

Not only is there a new coach, but practically a new team. David Dalton, a Bowling Green junior who played second on the team last year, is the only returning golfer.

"I'm not sure where the others are," Richards said. "They may show up later."

Richards signed six players during the summer. There are also a number of walk-ons who have expressed interest in trying out.

Ken Perry Jr. of Lone Oak

men's golf

High School may be one of the top prospects. Perry fired a 70 in the Kentucky High School State Championship to tie Louisville Trinity's Nick Moore for the 1978 title.

Another player who will join the team is Mike Naton, a Syracuse, N.Y., freshman. Naton won the Onondaga County Junior Championship (17-18-year-old division) this summer with rounds of 67-70-72 over the 6,900-yard course.

A junior college transfer from Florida, Jim Bagnardi, will add experience to the young team. Bagnardi averaged 74.6 strokes on the Colony West golf course, "a good average because the course is very long and extremely difficult," Richards said.

Scott Collins of St. Louis was No. 1 on the team that won the Missouri state title. He also placed fourth individually with rounds of 70-68 over the par 72 course.

Two Tennessee golfers, Sean Madden and James McCord, spent the majority of the summer playing in tournaments and are expected to boost the Hilltoppers roster. McCord of Pulaski also came from a high school championship team. He finished high in a number of junior tournaments in Tennessee.

Madden finished as the third lowest amateur in the Nashville

Metropolitan Area Pro-Am tournament. "He has also beat the current Tennessee state high school champ a couple of times in tournaments this summer," Richards said.

The coach said the walkers will have a four-day tryout period to "show their skills. We'll carry a maximum of 10 on the squad." "We're virtually starting over," Richards said. "We're new and young with people with good reputations. The inexperience could hinder us, but you never know."

The team, which usually practices at Park Mammoth Resort near Park City or at Hobson Grove in Bowling Green, may practice at Indian Hills Country Club and at Bowling Green Country Club. Details have not been worked out.

"We have no idea how good we'll be, or how good are opponents will be," Richards said.

Richards has increased the fall schedule to four tournaments. The Toppers played in one tournament last fall, the Oypland USA tournament.

Their opening match, Sept. 14-15, is a 22-team tourney at Indiana State. Other tournaments are at Lexington, Murray and Richmond.

"She should be pushing for one of the top four positions," Miss Langley said.

Several other women may try out for the team. "They will play among themselves and the top one of those will challenge the team members," Miss Langley said.

"Some of the best tennis you'll see will be played next week when they try out for positions," she added.

"They've all been either playing in tournaments or giving lessons this summer," Miss Langley said.

"They've been in a tennis atmosphere," Miss Langley said she again expects Kentucky and Western to battle for the KWIC championship.

The opening match against Indiana and Purdue should give the coach a good look at her team. She said that Purdue is not a strong team, but "Indians will be difficult. They have a good coach and some strong players from the west coast," Miss Langley said.
