Final examinations originally scheduled for Saturday have been rescheduled because of the Western-Louisiana Tech championship football game in Sacramento, Calif., that day. Rather than have the University open academic buildings for a small number of exams on Saturday morning, all the Saturday exams were rescheduled in an effort to conserve energy. See the revised schedule printed below.

The University may sponsor a California-bound chartered bus to the Camelias Bowl provided there is sufficient demand for the transportation. Cost of the trip is $810 per person, including a night's lodging. The bus would depart Bowling Green early Thursday morning and arrive in Sacramento Saturday. The bus would then leave Sacramento Sunday and arrive in Bowling Green Tuesday. The trip is an estimated 48 hours one way.

Interested students, faculty, staff and alumni are asked to sign up for the trip in the Office of Student Affairs by Wednesday. Students on the official list for the trip to the tournament will be allowed to reschedule exams regularly set for Thursday and Friday, provided the exams are made up before the close of school at 4:30 p.m., Dec. 21. According to Dr. Raymond L. Cravens, vice-president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty, "Students not on the official University list who attend the NCAA tournament must make individual arrangements with their faculty members concerning tests which may be missed."

The undefeated Hilltoppers will leave Smith Stadium at 3 p.m. Wednesday to catch a plane in Nashville at 8 for Sacramento. After two days of practice on the coast, the team will meet Louisiana Tech for the NCAA championship at 11:30 a.m. (PST). The game will be televised nationally by the American Broadcasting Company at 1:30 p.m. CST.

Reserved seat tickets for the game and on sale at the ticket office in the Wetherby Administration Building. Tickets—all reserved seats—are $6.

Different yearbook planned

By ELAINE AYERS

"Totally different" is the description given to this year's Talisman by editor Nancy Davis and managing editor Martha Spinks.

"The yearbook will be in magazine format with emphasis on copy. An editor has been assigned to each section and a yearbook class. Problems in School Publications was established."

"A lot of people have complained that they can't relate to the whole book," noted Miss Davis. "So we're trying to show that, while everyone's an individual, they are also part of the University."

With this in mind, the Talisman increased its reporting efforts for the student life section and made the academic section student rather than department oriented.

The editors this year have journalism backgrounds which has "shown never been the case," Miss Davis said. Both Miss Davis and Miss Spinks are mass communications majors.

They attended a summer workshop at Ohio University where they acquired new ideas from yearbook judges and other editors.

The purpose of the yearbook, Miss Davis said, is to "serve as a permanent record. Our purpose isn't to raise controversy. It's to adequately reflect the year. We don't want to sound like a public relations department. We don't plan to report only the good things and leave out the bad."

A problem, according to the editors, has been theournout for individual pictures, about 4,000 out of 11,000 students have had their pictures taken for the class sections. Photographs were taken last spring, and at the beginning of this semester, but the turnout was "not good." Miss Davis and Miss Spinks are at a loss to explain the poor results.

The yearbook is expected to run 464 pages with "a lot more color and some four-color." About 3,500 copies of the Talisman will be printed at a total cost of $50,000.

Opinion

God rest ye, gentle readers

This is the season for roasting chestnuts on an open fire, so here comes one of the oldest chestnuts we know: The Merry Christmas editorial. It gives something like this: "Yuletide is a moving, bittersweet occasion; a time to gather together friends and family by a warm hearth to laugh and talk of times past; but also a time for blantly fake Santas to ply the wares of a thousand money-grubbing companies, and a time when the wealth of the many is contrasted starkly with the poverty of the few."

"Most of all it is a time for all but the hardest-bitten cynics to allow themselves a tingle of hope; to believe, just for a moment, that though our problems be legion they can be surmounted, and we can climb above them to find peace within ourselves.

"Christmas, in its best sense, is a time of wishes and hopes; a time when all the dreams of mankind can be captured in the wonder on the face of a child."

The funny thing is, we believe it. Of course its hackneyed, but maybe Bilbo Baggins was right, and a good ending is none the worse for having been used before.

Have a good Christmas.

Letters to the editor

Bible's real theme
I read with sadness but also with a challenged heart the editorial article concerning the burning of Slaughterhouse Five. Being a mass media minor it brought to my attention the power of print. Also it showed the responsibility to share the real theme of the Bible. The article stated that if Slaughterhouse was burned the Bible should also be destroyed. Even for one ridiculous moment can these two literary compositions be compared? Upon closer scrutiny I tried to see Jones' comparison on the theme of these books according to the Supreme court's definition of pornography. Slaughterhouse came out lacking.

The only theme that I've encountered in the Bible has been love. Of course the book contains stories of war, hate and violence, because it is a book written about real people for real people. It is not only a book about a nation struggling for survival but also one of a man named Jesus, who is man's hope for survival and salvation. If our society starts burning books, (which I am not in favor), they may be able to destroy some, though will not erase the words of the Bible from the pages of history or burn them from the hearts of redeemed mankind.

Biased sportsiring
It seems to me that the sportscasters of Saturday's Western-Grambling game, was very biased toward Grambling.

The commentators kept mentioning how fantastic Grambling was while their performance was not nearly as outstanding as that of Western's. One could tell by simply watching the game.

No more than five seconds after Tomski had completed that tremendous touchdown pass to David Malley the sportscasters were talking about Grambling's coach and how much it would mean if they won the game. I think credit should be given where credit is due, but Western didn't receive nearly as much praise as it should have—no thanks to ABC Sports.

Mistreated
I do feel that it is time for someone to mention the treatment of students (in this case me) by university officials. To set the "bureau" I will give a little information as to my experiences with this university.

The next fun time the university handed me concerns my undergraduate degree. Since the university has not corrected conflicting errors on undergraduate degree forms (particularly entrance dates) I have had to go through the hassle of going through the red tape twice. As an afterthought to inform the degree officials, in the three years I have attended Western, classes have begun before September 1st.

To get to the king on the cake, I must mention that housing office. For misreading housing payment (options), I was subjected to verbal intimidation by a certain prominent housing official. I insinuated that I was not to be trusted to meet the required payments although in my three years here, I have never given reason for one to doubt my credit. I believe officials should take the time to look up personal data on the involved student before harassing him. Let it be known this case is not closed nor is it unique.

(Editors note: One paragraph of this letter was deleted because it contained potentially libelous statements about University physicians. The Herald has said repeatedly it will not print libelous letters, because to do so would open the newspaper to possible suit.)

Picture editorial

As we said in Friday's Herald, the hill on 15th Street will get you if you don't watch out. Yesterday it was Lee Watkins, assistant director of financial aid (left) who fell victim to the icy incline when his car and another collided at the base of the hill.

The Herald welcomes comments from its readers in the form of letters to the editor. These letters should be typed or written and must be signed. Letters should also be limited to approximately 250 words.

Letters intended for the Tuesday paper must be received at the Herald Office by noon the preceding Monday and those for the Friday paper by noon the preceding Thursday.
Talisman awarded top honors

The 1973 Talisman has won top honors from three book judging services.

Associated Collegiate Press - "Las Vegas" money to aid needy family

The Inter-Fraternity Council will be giving aid to a construction worker and his family with the money taken in at "Las Vegas Night." The family's bills have been mounting since the illness and death of one of the children and the disablement of the father.

IFC raised approximately $800 from the event at which about 800 Greeks and non-Greeks attended. Expenditures for the night included gaming tables which the IFC will rent to organizations.

What's happening?

A meeting will be held tonight for persons interested in joining a WKU wrestling club. Anyone interested should be at Smith Stadium Room 128 at 8 p.m.

Eta Sigma Gamma, national honorary society for health science, will have a brief meeting at 4 p.m. today in the health and safety department.

Alpha Gamma Rho University has recently initiated five new women into its little sister organization.

The newly initiated are Debbie Glenn, Marian Pevry, Betty Sloan, Gaye Brown and Brenda Chapman.

National Scholastic Press Association judges gave the yearbook an All-American rating. Wrote the judge, "Solid is the word for the 1973 Talisman." He commented on the completeness and attractive display and declared, that the annual "reflects staff know-how and a great deal of work." While achieving four of five marks of distinction, the Talisman was honored as "an excellent representative of the University" by the ACP-NSPA service.

The Talisman received a Medalist rating from Columbia Scholastic Press Association, which called the yearbook "fine" and advised experiment and pragmatism. National School Yearbook Association gave the yearbook an A-plus rating with this overall critique: "an excellent book with opportunity for significant improvement."

Editrix-in-chief for the '73 Talisman was Judy Radford. Bruce Witham and Julie Chambler were managing editor. The Talisman is under the supervision of the Office of University Publications based by David B. Whitaker. Roger Eaves, is book yearbook adviser.

Courses in self-defense to be offered this Spring

By STEPHANIE MADISON

If you're looking for a more unusual and interesting sport to take in physical education, why not consider judo or karate, or if you're female, a course in self-defense?

These courses are being offered by the physical education department as an attempt to incorporate more leisure sports into the physical education curriculum.

The department trains courses such as these will be more attractive to the students and should be well received. Dr. Burch Oglesby, head of the department, thinks the recent assassinations on coeds may stimulate interest in the self-defense class that will be offered next semester.

One section of judo will be offered and one section each of karate and advanced karate will be taught. All the classes will be taught on a semester basis. All offer one hour credit.

Oglesby describes the classes as teaching the basics and fundamentals of each sport with the advanced karate course delving somewhat deeper into the sport.

He said only one section of each is being offered because of the lack of qualified instructors in the areas, a graduate assistant will be teaching the class on karate and self-defense, George Kinser, AAU champion in judo, will be the instructor in the judo course.

The first bi-term of this semester, the department offered leisure sports courses such as canoeing, hiking and mountain climbing. The canoeing class took trips down the Barren River, the mountain climbing class explored the Smoky Mountains and the students in the hiking class took weekend trips to various state parks.

These classes are offered in the spring semester or the second bi-term of the fall semester because of weather conditions, Oglesby said.

In Western poll

Survey shows Nixon support

By MARK KROEGER

Western students' convictions concerning President Nixon's credibility, effectiveness, and ultimate fate generally match those of the nation, a recent government department survey revealed.

The survey was conducted last month by Ross Richardson, Mike Mullina and Janice Jenkins, all government graduate students. Of 500 students polled, 58.2 percent do not agree with the notion of impeachment. This can be compared to a recent Gallup poll which claimed that 55 percent consider impeachment undesirable.

Vietnamese coed gets a trip home

By CINDY GROVES

It is too far and too expensive for Tran My Le to go home for a two-week Christmas vacation. But because of the concern of the students at the Wesley Foundation, My Le will be returning home to Bac Lieu, South Vietnam, with a scholarship.

Miss My Le is a junior home economics major, came to the United States four years ago and has not been home since. Miss My Le came from a family of 12 children. An older sister lives in San Francisco and Miss My Le lived with her for a year. Through contact with the Wesley Foundation, she came to Western. The foundation has paid for tuition and books. This fall Miss My Le talked with the Rev. Walter McGe, director of the foundation, about getting a campus job so she could go home. Rev. McGe discussed My Le's situation with the students at the foundation, and they decided to send My Le home for summer vacation. In September, they began pledging money and taking special offerings in the churches where Miss My Le speaks for campus ministry. Their goal was $750 by May 1 for a round-trip ticket from San Francisco to Vietnam. Not only have they already reached their goal but have a total of $1,186. The extra money will be used for a trip to visit her sister and for personal items.

Only 12.8 percent of the students said "a great deal" of confidence in the Nixon administration. Thirty-two percent claim that they had a "fair amount" of confidence, and 34.4 percent said they did not trust the administration "very much."

Only 15.8 percent said that they had no confidence and trust in the administration at all.

Thirty-four percent of the students participating in the poll were freshmen: 18.5 percent were sophomores; 29.1 percent were juniors; 21.7 percent were seniors; and 2 percent were graduates.

Theatre students bundle for Britain

Several students will be studying theater in London over Christmas break under the direction of Dr. William Leonard, instructor in speech and theater. The students are enrolled for one hour for the trip only, or for three hours which includes a seminar this semester on the British theater.

The group will leave Dec. 27 and will return during registration for the spring semester.

Nine plays are scheduled, but students will have time to see other plays at their discretion and will also have ample time for sightseeing and other activities.

A discussion will be held each morning on the play viewed the night before, upcoming activities and individual experiences. After lunch students are on their own until the night's performance.

This is the second year the tour has been organized and it includes round-trip air fare from Louisville, tickets to nine shows, hotel accommodations and one complete meal a day.

The tour is conducted during the Christmas break because of off-season rates and the quality of the play productions during this time of year.

‘Water’ play dries up tonight

W. Allen, author of “Don’t Drink The Water” will be presented by the Western Players this week at Gordon Wilson Hall Theatre 100. Performances will continue through tonight at 8:15. Tickets are $1.50.

The art department will have a suction and sale today and tomorrow in room 123 of the Downing University Center to raise money for the department’s scholarship fund.

The sale will be from 9:30 to 7:30 tonight and there will be individual sales continuing until 10 p.m. The sale will continue tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

A percentage of each piece that is auctioned or sold will go toward the scholarship fund.

The sale will include drawing, weaving, printmaking, painting, ceramics, sculpture and leatherwork.

The Masque is here

The Bowling Green (Ohio) State University Choir will present a Christmas program tonight at 7:30 in the Russell Miller Theater at the Fine Arts Center.

Selections by the choir will include “The Messiah” and traditional Christmas carols. The choir will be accompanied by chamber orchestra, also from the University.

The Kentucky Music Teachers Association is sponsoring the concert as part of a series here at Western this year.

And now, a word about an art degree

A commercial art degree has been initiated by the art department beginning next semester in conjunction with the mass communications, industrial education and home economics departments. The degree consists of a baccalaureate degree with a commercial art option. The degree is designed as a basic training program for students planning to enter the commercial art field.

Students may earn the 60 hour major by taking 21 hours of commercial art block. The block consists of selected courses in the four departments which students can choose from. Any combination of the courses is permissible. Students are also required to take one design course, three art history courses, three drawing courses and three electives from any of the four departments.

Interested students should contact Leo Fernandez in the art department.
Independent Claus

Student Santa sleighs the kids and promises only maybe's

For Western student Casey Kullman, Christmas means more than a stream of finals or a break from classes. He is a Santa Clause at a local department store. Although he says it's just another job, he admits feeling a little sad at times. He says often a family appears too poor to buy even the one or two items the children request. But one of the rules of playing Santa is never promising anything. And Casey doesn't. He says "Maybe, just maybe..."

Playing Santa also means taking almost 30 minutes to change from a Brandenburg freshman with an undeclared major to jolly St. Nick. It involves flinging pillows around his normally thin frame and stuffing his shoulder-length hair under a pile of white and a red hat. But Casey says it's worth it. "It pays well."

Christmas vacation was last summer; semester break is a week short

With finals almost here, at last, the end of the semester is less than two weeks away, but students will receive only a two week Christmas vacation and semester break before beginning spring semester registration.

The additional week of Christmas vacation, which Western students enjoyed in the past, was included in the summer break, causing fall semester classes to begin one week later.

Campus libraries will observe the following hours during the week:
- Thursday and Friday: 7-8:30 a.m. to midnight: Saturday-Sunday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Monday, Jan. 2: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Tuesday, Jan. 3: 9-11 a.m., 1-5 p.m.
- Wednesday, Jan. 4: 9-11 a.m., 1-5 p.m.
- Thursday, Jan. 5: 9-11 a.m., 1-5 p.m.
- Friday, Jan. 6: 9-11 a.m., 1-5 p.m.
- Saturday, Jan. 7: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Sunday, Jan. 8: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The libraries will be closed from Saturday, Dec. 22, through Monday, Dec. 24, to allow for breaks before the exams.

The library will be closed during the winter break from Wednesday, Dec. 26, to Sunday, Jan. 1.

The library will re-open on Monday, Jan. 2.

A trip to the NCAA finals for ‘noticeable’ Hilltoppers

By CARTER PENCE

BATON ROUGE, La.—There were a lot of particularly noticeable accomplishments, but perhaps it was the ones that weren’t so noticeable that set the scene for Western’s 28-20 victory over Grambling here Saturday.

Noticeable were things such as the Toppers’ offensive line which fought off the Grambling front four that outweighed them by an average of 30 pounds per man. There was Porter Williams, a senior split end, who performed Grambling’s secondary the entire afternoon, snatching seven passes for 91 yards, as well as keeping an ABC-TV cameraman on his toes trying to follow the fleet-footed Williams on an isolated camera.

Noticeable was the Western defensive eleven that came up with four interceptions and five fumbles.

Not noticeable was coach Jimmy Felix, who on Thursday night, loaded the entire team onto a bus to ship them to a movie a mere block and a half away. Not noticeable was Dennis Tomsek joining some of his companions the afternoon before the game and refusing to drink a beer, but instead nervously getting up and walking away.

Not noticeable were the townspeople, who remarked the entire week on how powerful Grambling was. Not noticeable were Grambling’s players who were joking and laughing on the field before the game, unaware that the last laugh would be on them.

“Tomas was too worried about it,” said Williams, who was voted the game’s most valuable offensive player. “I knew I was going to get that ha-ha stuff. People are always doing that.”

The victory, Western’s 15th against no losers, wasn’t locked up until the waning moments of the game, however. After taking a 21-7 lead into the dressing room at halftime, the third quarter was filled with Western driving toward the Tiger goal-line, although not once could Western capitalize.

Then, with 20 seconds remaining, Grambling linebacker Robert Pensieve intercepted a Dennis Tomsek pass (one of Tomsek’s six interceptions), and rummaged 87 yards to the Western goal line as time ran out in the quarter. Keith Smyre’s placement made it 21-14 and Grambling had new life.

The fourth quarter closed with the momentum clearly in Grambling’s favor. After Western failed to move the ball, Grambling took over. Behind the powerful running of 225-pound sophomore fullback David Dixon, Grambling marched to the Western 10 where quarterback Joe Comeaux scrambled around left end for the score.

But just as the incentive hit, Grambling, so did it leave. Smyre missed the extra point and the score remained 21-20.

Another of Grambling’s five fumbles set up the Toppers’ final TD, as Dixon barreled through the line only to have the ball pop loose. Linebacker Rick Green, who won the game’s most valuable defensive player award, was there, and recovered the Tiger 25. Tomsek needed three plays to get Western to the end zone capping the series with a 22-yard pass to Dave May, who wanted it more than we did,” explained Grambling coach Eddie Robinson after the game. “They just were more prepared than we were. You can look at the turnovers and say we fumbled too much. But when you fumble, somebody usually forces you into it and that’s just what Western did.”

Which makes it sound like Western played near-perfect ball. They did. Steve Dennis Tomsek, who had his problem combating the wind and 360-pound defensive linemen, which only managed to sack him once the entire game.

“There wasn’t much pressure from the rush,” Tomsek said. “It was more me rushing. I guess I thought too much about how big they were and what they might do to me.”

Tomsek wasn’t the only one concerned about his physical wellbeing. “Let me tell you about what I was thinking about,” said Felix, “I had visions of Dennis getting broke in half. But then big of linemen only got to him once. Now there’s where the game was won.” Felix concluded passing a large portion of the credit to the offensive line.

Western will now face Louisiana Tech, who defeated Boise State 38-34 in the final seconds of the Pioneer Bowl in Wichita Falls, Tex. To the winner of that game, the Camellia Bowl, in Sacramento, Calif., this Saturday, will go the national championship.

Surging Tops trim Providence

By LEO PEEKENPAUGH

Jim Richards simply told it like it was. "I felt that if we played a fantastic ballgame we had a chance."

Amazement.

Because Richards' Western Hilltoppers went out last night and played fantastic, whipping eighth-ranked Providence 89-64 before nine-thousand fans in Diddle Arena.

Western played the Friars to a standoff during the first 12 minutes. Then, the roof fell in.

Leading 27-26, with 6:45 remaining in the first half, the Dave Gavitt-coached invaders went on a rampage.

And when they stopped, they had built a 17-point bulge (48-31) and threatened to make the game a rout as it was last year when the fourth place NCAA finishers rolled 118-86 in Providence.

But it was a surge late in that first half that may have kept the fans in the arena at halftime. The Toppers scored the final eight points of the half and perhaps gained the second half momentum they needed in closing the gap to 48-39.

Richards felt so anyhow. "We definitely came back to the dressing room with a little momentum."

They also found out during the 15-minute intermission that they would play the Marvin Barneled Friars man to man on defense—a defense that would trouble their opponents.

But Providence again looked as if they would pull away as standout guard Kevin Bacon and Mark McAndrew hit quick baskets to put their team up 52-39.

But Gavitt didn't think it would be too easy. "At the half I felt we were in a game that would go down to the wire and I was concerned."

"Why?"

I was really concerned about our physical conditioning because we had such an unusual pre-season practice," said Gavitt, currently in his fifth year at the small Rhode Island school.

He was referring to a pre-season practice that was marred with injuries, including one that forced Barne to miss three and a half weeks of practice.

"Don't get me wrong, however," he continued. "Our kids were ready to play, but we just got tired, started standing around in the second half and forcing shots up there."

We didn't get any boards (rebounds) either. Credit Western, they played well.

He couldn't have said it better. With Mike Odenas (winner of (Cont. to Page 15, Col. 1)

Topper footballers neglected in All-American selections

By LEO PECKENPAUGH
A wire service poll released its 1973 Little All-American football team last week and to the surprise of many, no Western players were mentioned on the first team. For that matter, no Hilltopper players were on the second team. And, you're right. There wasn't even a Western player on the third team.

With more individual talent than in any year in Western's 56-year gridiron history, the Hilltoppers, with a perfect record, a trip to the national championship and more national recognition than ever, have to All-Americans, yet.

There are 15 spots on the squad. One, Dave Nollner, was named to one All-American team last year. But, he hasn't been named to one this year.

Why has the team been ignored? Nobody can come up with an acceptable answer. However, one Western official, who has considerable influence on the writers and coaches who vote for the all-star teams, stated recently to reporter that he didn't believe the players cared for the recognition.

The dream of every, or nearly every college football player today, is to one day make it to the pros and become an All-American before he graduates (not necessarily in that order). And I believe that no matter how much a guy wants to win, he also wants recognition for himself. Everything a player does isn't just for the team. He does it also for his own good and hopes that in the process it helps the team win and hopes that someone appreciates his talents and effort.

That wire service mentioned earlier did have six Hilltoppers on its honorable mention All-American selections, along with about 100 other players. Listed were Nollner, Lenie Schuster, Audra Skiles, Mike McCoy, Clarence Jackson and Porter Williams.

To say the least, the team was infuriated when it picked up the Baton Rouge newspaper Friday morning and read through the selections. "I believe it," and "what does a guy have to do?" were heard throughout the hotel lobby.

And making All-American is not just an individual honor. It gives the rest of the team a warm feeling just knowing that they helped make someone an All-American.

And Nollner yesterday as he strolled across campus, "I've been working as hard as I can since making second-team All-American last year to make the first-team this year, and look what happens."

Guys like McCoy, Jackson and Williams want to win just as badly as I have ever seen anyone want to win, but they also want some national recognition for their efforts.

A single reference, after playing with former Western All-Americans Lawrence Brans and Jimmy Barber, there aren't any.

Swimmers glide past Tennessee State

By RICHARD ROGERS

Did you ever hear a coach boast that his team was too good, he could seat in the stands and cheerleaders and still win?

Well, swimming coach Bill Powell had so much confidence in his swimmers' ability over Tennessee State that he decided to use most of his reserves in the meet. So he sent in manager Bruce Eberger in the 400-yard medley relay.

Western lost that event 4:27.6 to 4:10.5, but went on to win the meet 54-40 to bring their record to 24-6.

Aside from the usual antics which always accompany the fun-loving Western swim team, Rick Yelouchan stole the show.

Yelouchan, who was Western's first NCAA qualifier and set three varsity school records last year, won the 50-yard freestyle in 22.3 after missing two days of practice because of a cold. He missed tying his own record by one-tenth of a second.

Coach Bill Powell said that Yelouchan was impressive in the meet against Tennessee State. "I feel that Rick can go 21.6 in the 50 and 46.0 in the 100 freestyle events this year," he said.

Both of those times will qualify him for the NCAA meets. Some of the other highlights were the diving of Jim Finn and Tom Demon.

First-year man Longmire won the three-divisional event when he scored 170.35 points, which was a must record. He placed just behind Finn in the option diving with 200.3 points.

Three second-year men set new meet records. Keith Romney's score of 112.22 in the 100-yard freestyle beat the old mark of 11:45:3 set by Rich VanDellen last year.

Bill Lowendick won 18:40 in the 500-yard freestyle to beat Thomas old record of 19:3. Todd Urban beat his old mark of 2:18.3 in the 200-yard butterfly when he won the distance in 2:17.0.

Jayvees down Paducah JC

By DON COLLINS

Western’s Jayvee basketballers scored their season mark at 1-1 with a come-from-behind 91-86 win over Paducah Community College last night.

Gary Elliott, Dennis Benningfield and Ralph Williams led the Topper onslaught. Elliott scored in 26 points and added 11 rebounds against the Indians, who sported a 5-6 record coming into the game.

Benningfield enjoyed particular success inside against Paducah’s taller men, who were in foul trouble most of the game. The Topper forward from Campbellville only committed on five field goals all evening but picked up 12 free throws in 16 attempts. Benningfield also cleared 15 rebounds.

Padtrah broke out to an early lead via a full-court press, which forced the young Toppers into 12 floor errors in the first half. Had Paducah not committed 13 turnovers itself in the first stanza, the halftime score of 52-46 might have been much larger.

Both teams came out cold in the second half and traded buckets until the seven-minute mark when both of Paducah’s guards fouled out. Western then relied off four points to take a 77-73 lead.

Sherman Cashman, a reserve guard, knocked the Indians back to 81-77 but Ralph Williams, a 6-4 forward quickly canned six points and with the aid of another Hilltopper reserve, Larry Durham, who added three baskets, enabled Western to race to the final 91-86 margin.
