9-15-2005

UA12/2/1 College Heights Herald, Vol. 81, No. 5

WKU Student Affairs

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wku.edu/dlsc_ua_records

Part of the Higher Education Administration Commons, Journalism Studies Commons, Mass Communication Commons, Public Relations and Advertising Commons, Social History Commons, Sociology Commons, Sports Studies Commons, and the United States History Commons

Recommended Citation

This Other is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in WKU Archives Records by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.
University Senate to debate using the state

By Alex Fontana

Several faculty members say their retirement accounts are dwindling, and they want Western to take legal action to prevent losses for their members.

The University Senate will decide today whether to move forward with a motion to sue the state for losing millions for the Benefits Trust Fund, or what's commonly called the Retirement System. Some members of the senate say they are being asked to simultaneously take money from their Optional Retirement Plans to keep the system from running out.

The senate motion offers $1 million to each health plan to keep the system solvent. To the senate's surprise, KTRS management has added $5 million to the fund, which was expected to run out of funds in three years, but now says it will be able to keep the fund solvent for 10 years. A senate member claimed that KTRS management is using money intended for the retirement system as a windfall to keep its fund solvent.

The senate motion offers $1 million to each health plan to keep the system solvent. To the senate's surprise, KTRS management has added $5 million to the fund, which was expected to run out of funds in three years, but now says it will be able to keep the fund solvent for 10 years. A senate member claimed that KTRS management is using money intended for the retirement system as a windfall to keep its fund solvent.

Faculty retirement plan accused of mishandling funds

The senate motion offers $1 million to each health plan to keep the system solvent. To the senate's surprise, KTRS management has added $5 million to the fund, which was expected to run out of funds in three years, but now says it will be able to keep the fund solvent for 10 years. A senate member claimed that KTRS management is using money intended for the retirement system as a windfall to keep its fund solvent.

The senate motion offers $1 million to each health plan to keep the system solvent. To the senate's surprise, KTRS management has added $5 million to the fund, which was expected to run out of funds in three years, but now says it will be able to keep the fund solvent for 10 years. A senate member claimed that KTRS management is using money intended for the retirement system as a windfall to keep its fund solvent.

Faculty retirement plan accused of mishandling funds

The senate motion offers $1 million to each health plan to keep the system solvent. To the senate's surprise, KTRS management has added $5 million to the fund, which was expected to run out of funds in three years, but now says it will be able to keep the fund solvent for 10 years. A senate member claimed that KTRS management is using money intended for the retirement system as a windfall to keep its fund solvent.
New additions so far this semester to the Visual Voices Sorority quiz, President Gary Randolf's trip to Kenya, Hurricane Katrina and the Eastern vs. Football game. Check out the news on有价值的，它不是你想象的！Web site.

Plasma Center

Short of Cash? Donate Plasma! Thousands do!

Find out how thousands of people save lives & earn extra cash by donating plasma. Plasma is used to manufacture unique medicines for people with serious illnesses.

Earn up to $170/ Month

"I don't think people realize, for two hours a week, they can give someone a chance at life. That's priceless!"

www.ourplasma.com

It's like having a part-time job without a boss

Bowling Green Biologicals
410 Old Morgantown Rd.
793-4235

$10 First Visit Special! New Donors Bring this ad for $5 extra on your 2nd and 4th Donations
Dear Jessica "my jeans are a size 3" Smith

I glad you took the time to write an op-ed column. It is something we need to talk about.

First of all, no one has even "heated" jeans before. You would need a hint more about the weather.

Second of all, I do agree that "heated" jeans need to do more, and it is very much the opposite.

And lastly, I would like to say that family apparel is a fact that you wear a size 3. That's a great tendency in today's fashion industry.

Yo momma would probably say that these "heated" jeans are too tight. What are we going to do about it?

Oh and if you are looking for me, I am in the back of the store. I am not here to help you.

"Hey! Let me help you find the size 3 jeans you need." I have never thought of that. But I will not try them on, because I am not the size 3 jeans you need.

Singing like "heated" girls is not what we "heated" girls need first a size 3, shadow journalism. How about we try to make some "pots" in your writing?

Securities, stocks, and gold
Heather Blackman
September 12

If you don't like it, deal with it

I am not the only one who did not know about the heated jeans that were being advertised. I was just one of those new parents that noticed some of your jeans had been dressed in .

The jeans are heated and you need to know that the same jeans are being advertised.

I agree that what she has for you does not dress to the size. I am just speaking to those girls who do. And it's not that we need to wear them in the street. It's just that the looks good, let's be honest. Who are we to judge what others do?

If you don't like it, deal with it. It's like being in the dark.

Cypriana Duncan (with numerous others)
Frederick Cady

Eye of the Beholder

Jessica, Jessica, you are so beautiful. Your personality shines as bright as your make-up.

What makes you think that "pots" comes in the wardrobe?

Not all of us are here to impress someone. Not all of us are here to dress up for a big game at the mall.

Don't wear that jeans that show the rolls of a big girl. But who are the people who are so mean to you? Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. What the girl in the jean shorts looks like?

What if the young woman saw walking alone with her bag of fries? Don't they have the money to buy their jeans? Can you think of a girl looking good enough for you?

What if the young woman gets used to wanting the things you TOOK? Perhaps she should keep your pretty little thoughts to herself and let other people live their choice.

Diana Schaefer
Senior
Beverly Green

These are the Herald's views on the good, the bad and the slightly unattractive.
ENERGY: Air conditioning causes soaring electricity costs

Western is contracted with Energy Management University System Authority to use $2,000,000,000, or less, in each month. TVA can ask Western to cut usage back to less that $1,500,000 if the energy is needed elsewhere, said Jeff Wiles, engineering supervisor for the electrical division at EEU.

Western is expected to $2,000,000 less if energy usage would pay a higher bill for the month, and passed your long fees for the rest of the year for not working in the control.

Energy conservation is visible in Gruen Hall, where energy lights are dimmest in the auditorium and offices have been turned off.

Until this week, the Gruen air conditioning was also on a rotation, Gruen Building Coordinator Paul Newby said. The chill was maintained because of two buildings at the building but other buildings are also being pushed out.

Newby said it is an additional to the budget, and there may be more ways to make it hard for chemicals to learn.

SENATE: Professor says KTRS violating retirement income act

The Sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi would like to Congratulate our 2005 New Members

Not what she had in mind, but it can be turned on and off, but the chill will be turned off.

K.T.S. members have been turned off in the building, and the chill is turned on.

K.T.S. members have been turned off in the building, and the chill is turned on.

The Sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi would like to Congratulate our 2005 New Members

We love our new girls K. A. A. O.

Share your space, but live on your own.
By Kelly Richardson

Shrimp fiscus are another of the farms of Kentucky after a big job opened near the University of Kentucky.

With a background in marketing the farms, the new farm will be a key to the future of the University of Kentucky.

"It was exciting," said Dr. Bob Fennell, director of the University of Kentucky's Agricultural Research and Education Center.

"This is the most exciting thing we've ever done," said Fennell. "We've been waiting for this for a long time."
Health Services looking forward to expansion in new building

BY ANDRA COUTIER

Winchester fredmam Doug las Worthington glared at the magazine cover by lap while similar in the Health Services waiting room.

He had been waiting for the opportunity to image his bloodstream alter ego.

But the lines may get a little thinner in the next few years when Health Services moves into a bigger, more-streamlined building.

The groundbreaking for a new Health Services facility may take place this spring, and move-in is set for summer 2007, Health Services Director Lanny Gossman said.

The building will be next to the President's Office facing Normal Drive. The goal is to expand facilities and position the two health and wellness buildings near one another, Gossman said.

The construction will be funded with $4 million in state bonding secured in the 2004-05 state budget. Health Services administrators have not asked for additional money to help with the cost, Gossman said.

Health Services administrators say they plan to repay the bonds in fixed amounts with money charged to patients and their insurance companies for the services they provide, he said.

Gossman and Health Services will probably hire another full-time doctor to keep up with patient demand once the new facility is built.

Worthington said he is happy with the new waiting room. He said it has fewer and more comfortable chairs and more open space than the first floor. He guesses it’s a G.G., because it is "in the middle of everything." He said.

"The new building should increase the number of exams patients can take, but we will have to include a digital imaging X-ray system, Gossman said.

The building should be similar to health services facilities at other campuses, with an administrative area and a place for patients to check in, said Doug Ault, director of planning, design and construction.

But it also may include physical therapy and equipment, research for a health and wellness education area and a pharmacy.

The new Health Services building will give patients and workers more access to parking and will give the building greater street visibility, Gossman said.

Staff rooms also will be larger facilities to deal with an increased number of patients, he said.

In 2001, Health Services saw almost 9,200 patients, he said. In 2006, there were almost 12,200 patients.

"Physician Manager, Nancy manager for Health Services, said the new Health Services is a new building, a new site, but he won't be completely convinced until the building is finished.

"Right now, we just want to have opened with bated breath," he said. "Health Services administrators have tried to gather resources for a new building periodically since 2000 with private money from contacts, Collegiate Health Care, Gossman said.

The cornerstone of the building is hidden in a parking lot behind Poland Hall.

"We'll be ready to open by the end of the month." Gossman said.

A Deaf Access Station is also being positioned at the college, the station will use video-communication technology to give deaf and hard of hearing people access to interpreting services and, where available, captioning of television and video material. The service in the station will be at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 27 in the computer laboratory.

Worthington said the new building will include restrooms, a new language lab and a course material library.

"The library will not be that big," Worthington said. "The important thing would be to have some useful faculty." said.

Worthington said a recommendation the communication disorders department and the College of Health and Human Services for the new library is and will be coming end, he said.

Worthington's goal is to have an interpretive services program available at Western.

There's nothing left to put in the building, and there is no need for," he said.

New students at Western could take the two hours of ASL from a useful skill and a unique language, Worthington said.

"This speaks English, you speak French, you speak Spanish. But this language you are not going to study. I don't see any other language," he said. "I just think it's a very unique kind of experience to learn to speak."
FEELING: Payne goal beats Longwood

MITCHELL: Position swap started in spring

HOST: Defense to be focus

Mud Volleyball!!

Sports briefs

Widespread Panic

With The Drive By Truckers
Streaking Lady Tops to host invitational

By Beth Willardson
Sports Editor

As women's pre-season volleyball schedule winds down, Coach Travis Hudson and the Lady Topper squad continue making positive strides before opening conference play later this month.

After last Friday and Saturday's dominant performances in the Northern Kentucky Invitational, Hudson said the team is focused on defense before this weekend's tournament.

"The biggest thing for us this week is defense," Hudson said.

At 7 p.m. Friday, the Lady Toppers play Tennessee-Chattanooga. They face Morehead State at 11 a.m. Saturday before wrapping up state at 7 p.m. Saturday at Kent State.

Winners (1-0) face Kent State (2-0) at 9 p.m. at Baker Gym. The tournament is Normal, II, in four games.

The Flashes will come into Diddle Arena after a 3-0 loss to Synovitse in the Kent State Invitational.

"Since tops, much of the team played in high school, so the team chemistry will be very important as we get the more in the two weeks will be important," Hudson said.

"Hopefully, we'll be able to make some progress," he added.

Despite the team's first loss to Synovitse, and the team's score, it's not uncommon for a team to lose.

"We're looking forward to the competition and the losses we haven't won yet," said senior outside hitter Crystal Twyman.

The Lady Toppers' biggest problem this weekend is their seven-loss season.

"We just need help getting in the gym and practicing," she added.

For Twyman, Tennessee is the only other team in the state, and the team will be able to play at home, especially because no senior players' status was confirmed.

"We're really excited to be here this weekend," Twyman said.

"I've always been good to us," Hudson said.

"I'm really excited to be here this weekend," Twyman said.

"I really hopes keeps you to the right team," she added.

Western wins fifth straight at Tenn. Tech

Freshmen middle hitter Megan Kangol led the Lady Toppers with 11 kills and sophomore Kelly Hoffmeier had 19 digs against Tennessee Tech on the road. Tech believes the match, after losing 3-1 against Tennessee Tech (1-0) at 3-0.

"This was a game we felt we should be able to control during the match, and certainly we were able to do that," Hudson said.

"We were able to get the middle and the offense to be effective," he added.

Despite their most successful season to date, the Lady Toppers are making the most of it.

"I believe the team is working on becoming the top team in the state," Hudson said.

For Tech, the team is working on becoming the top team in the state.

"I believe the team is working on becoming the top team in the state," Hudson said.

"I believe the team is working on becoming the top team in the state," Hudson said.
Mitchell shoulders burden

Senior Dennis Mitchell is re-learning cornerback position.

By WAR WATT

With a hand on his shoulder and a tear in his eye, senior cornerback Dennis Mitchell walked off the ship to his teammates yesterday.

The celebration was over a 3:31 win over St. Louis University.

And the pain on the shoulder was from former Millikin quarterback, now assistant coach, Willie Taggart. Mitchell's second game as the Marquee sitting in cornerback went about as well as his first game in 2002.

Taggart's arm, said Mitchell's shoulder, with an encouraging gesture, and Taggart was part of the team. And he was happy.

"I just told him to keep his head up. The great ones have a bad game, and we're going to need you down on the season. He needs just keep coming because Dennis is better than the way he played tonight," said Mitchell.

"When someone scores on you, it really makes you mad. It put all the blame on myself. It was so frustrating. I mean, we could have lost the game on one of the things of the field."

After playing strong safety his first two years, Mitchell's move to corner is a little different that his time spent at wide receiver.

"I come out of here everyday and I practice so hard to try and do something," Mitchell said. "When someone scores on you, it really makes you mad. I put all the blame on myself. It was so frustrating. I mean, we could have lost the game because of it."

"I was just up, Taggart said. "I just told him to keep his head up. The great ones have a bad game, and we're going to need you down on the season."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Mitchell said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

Midfielder no longer feeling the Payne

ACL tear kept Daniel Payne out of the action last season.

By DAVID HAUT

A bit of a test.

A bit of a test.

And the test was just a matter of seconds. Western junior forward Daniel Payne's season ended.

It was the last game of the season. I put a strong move after a goal, Payne said. "I hit the ball off his hand, I didn't mean to hit him, but I hit him."

The doctor from the doctor, a ten junior, said Payne's surgery and months of medical therapy were necessary for Payne to return.

Payne was coming off his best season as a midfielder. At sophomore in 2002, he was Western's leading scorer with 18 goals and 22 points. The junior midfielder is now back to normalcy after returning from a knee injury that kept him out of the action last season.

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury.

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury.

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury.

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury.

"I'm just happy to be back out there," Payne said. "I was kept out of the action last season because of an injury."
Mankiller provides positive outlook for students

By CASSANDRA CORTEZ

A few years ago, a student from a prominent high school asked Wilma Mankiller about the origins of her name. Mankiller, remembering the common perception of Native American women as weak, gave a candid reply. "It’s a nickname... and I earned it.

Although she was joking about her name, Mankiller’s message was one of greater importance than some might realize. Last night in the Media and Technology Hall audi-ern, Mankiller, the first woman to the Cherokee Nation, gave a lecture entitled, ‘Community Centered Leadership Leading from the Front.’ Her name, Mankiller, was born on the perception of great leadership can be achieved and why having a positive outlook is vital to the role. Mankiller’s name comes from an old title given to those who wanted over the village of the Cherokee nation, the second-largest tribe in the United States, with more than 225,000 people.

Mankiller’s message, however, was one of substance, rather than just her name. She emphasized the importance of having a positive outlook, something that can be hard to maintain in the face of adversity. Her message resonated with the audience, who were encouraged to embrace their own strengths and to work towards a better future.

The event was open to the public, and those who attended were left with a sense of hope and determination. Mankiller’s words served as a reminder that, even in the face of challenges, a positive outlook can be the key to success.
People-watching makes life, humans much more interesting.

Just Sayin' Anitha North

People, do you love it? They are the little creatures existing on this planet for dog- days. I can't get enough of them. One of my favorite things to do is people-watching. Whether you alone or with friends. It’s gonna be a great time.

The two main places I like to people-watch are coffeehouses and bars. They are the places where a group of people come together in a diverse atmosphere.

The beauty of people-watch- ing is seeing your imagination in the man, and then importantly, you get to guess who type of life they lead.

My friends and I went to this coffeehouse in Nashville one weekend, and we spotted this interesting duo. Entering of a middle-aged woman wearing oversized sunglasses, tight, sequined pants with a black tank and Super Fly-esque platform shoes. With her was a middle-aged man who looked like he just got through playing golf.

Yikes. Absolutely a bad idea. The woman was wearing the man in the cold shoulder which he stood behind her, looking around the coffeehouse.

We wondered what or who was they looking for, and why was she ignoring this guy, we were-nosed.

Then my friend came up with a theory they were essays looking for a young couple to take home for the night.

We all stood up in confusion, wondering what that even popped in their mind. I mean, she’s like Chrystal Brown “Yes and or the City.” Maybe it was shocking because I didn’t come up with the vision straight at first.

Anyway, we ended up going along with the story and bought a mocha.

Two minutes later, she left. “Don’t find any worthy companions, we supper.”

Hey, would happen. You just never know with people.

My favorite haunt is a coffeehouse.

There are times when I just want to sit back and chill in front of Java City or Spendish and watch the people walk by and talk on a windows while listening to the radio. That makes it even more interesting, because along with my imagination, there’s a soundtrack.

I love watching people interact with each other. Public displays of affection never cease.

I’m the cynical people-watch- er. Do you always think of the scene from “Annie Hall” where the Adie is seen crying on the bench in Central Park and he makes out of frames?

Watching couples is the most fun. You know, the ones that want everyone around them know they are together.

The playground excited about the situation, as you notice the glow on her face, because she finally finds the man of her dreams who she can brag about.

You see her happy face, but while she’s not looking, her boyfriend is giving a dirty look to someone.

Of course, she doesn’t see it because she’s blinded by her love-for-days, but Easter will surely notice it in a while. Come on, let’s not kid around.

It’s like watching a movie with a predictable plot — you know what’s going to happen, but the characters seem so real.

But now you can people- watch by just sitting on your home in front of the computer screen, thanks to Web sites like Facebook and MySpace.

There was a time when I would surf the Facebook and MySpace. I mean, seriously.

It’s a whole different story.

Now I can get enough of them. Every day I check my e- mail, then join right into MySpace and feel each friendship to see what they are up to. And let’s not lie, when somebody requests you as a friend, what do you do? You check on personal pages before adding to your friends. Just like you do with people-watching, you pick who you are going to sit next to by size.

If you like what you see, you confirm. If not, you reject.

Moodle.

You watch more people than you think you do.

Another tweet is that you should talk, though you did hate them. You hardly want to keep your hands upon anyone. The topic.

Another tweet is that you should ask people for advice and here’s another. You can reach her at and more search the internet.
MTV grants fan's wish

BY MEGAN VERNES
Feature writer

Lexington junior Patrick Buchanan went from being turned away from a professional modeling agency in New York City to becoming Kelly Clarkson’s assistant after appearing on MTV’s ‘Total Request Live’ last summer.

After telling an MTV producer he was a fan of Clarkson, Buchanan was able to get a call to fill in as a backup singer for an upcoming TRL show. While Clarkson was on tour in Texas, Buchanan was offered a chance to fill in and sing with the former American Idol winner.

At Clarkson’s insistence, Buchanan helped write a script, accompanied her to the gift shop, shared a lunch appointment and made her a hydrangea for her concert that night. After the show’s technical preparations, Buchanan’s final daily trip was picking Clarkson’s luggage to the bus and singing in her 2005 hit “Since You’ve Been Gone”.

“I felt like a celebrity! People screamed, ‘There we go! Love you!’ and asked for autographs,” Buchanan said.

Buchanan got the chance to be Clarkson’s assistant after being approached by an MTV producer while walking in the crowd in front of TRL’s studios in Times Square. When the producer asked if he was a fan of Clarkson, Buchanan said that he was, “so it was all a big surprise.”

After convincing a producer that he was a fan by naming five of Clarkson’s songs, he was asked to sing the encore.

On his way up, the producer explained to Buchanan that he would be on TV in 15 minutes. Mounted by the stage, he asked if he could change his clothes. He said that he was nervous, but mostly excited for what was about to happen.

Buchanan said that Clarkson was a nice person with a real personality. He later saw her in Nashville after her 2005 tour. After July 21, March is his surprise. Clarkson picked him out of a crowd and called him her name. She asked him to come on stage and take photos with her old friend where they talked like old friends.

That was not the end of Buchanan’s fame. During an appearance on TRL, he was interviewed by hosts, friends and family.

Buchanan’s dream with Clarkson was fulfilled on TRL and aired July 14 on MTV.

“I’ve also appeared on TRL three times, including once as an audience member in 2005. As a broadcasting journalism major, Buchanan said his TRL appearance gave him an understanding of what a career in news reporting could be. I feel that for the time that he spent in front of the camera was valuable toward his future goal of being an MTV video DJ or VJ.”

Louisville senior Trish Weast, a long-time friend of Buchanan’s, said his time in the spotlight was good for experience.

“Patrick’s goal is to be an on-air personality,” she said. “I have no doubt in my mind that he will make it.”

Buchanan advises anyone who wants to be on TRL to have fun and not take themselves too seriously.

Reach Alyssa Wesner at Jerusalem.aherald.com.

Style doesn’t matter to God.
YOU DO.

8:15am
Communion Worship
9:30am
Contemporary Worship
Video Cafe Worship
11:00am
Contemporary Worship
Traditional Worship
College Sunday School Class
10:30am
Communion Worship
11:00am
Contemporary Worship
Traditional Worship
College Sunday School Class

Broadway
2780 Scottsville Rd.
Bowling Green
842-5111

1/2 Price Appetizer
Luncheon per coupon
per person

MARGARITAVILLE MONDAYS

Just Like Heaven
From the director of "Freaky Friday" and "Mean Girls"

Reese Witherspoon
Mark Ruffalo

Opens September 16 At Theaters Everywhere
SGA budget debated

By Amber Coulter

Red tape, like rocks and organizational at some on the agenda, for last year’s Student Government Association sessions. Next year, the proposed SGA legislative branch will vote on or other ways to spend the $115,000 budget into student lives.

The annual SGA budget was presented to students at the Tuesday night meeting. It will come up for a vote next Tuesday. SGA received $26,000 more or less than last year.

The group has more than $12,000 to support new programs and activities. As an example of the group's efforts, the Revenue and Benefit Concert at 545 p.m. on Tomorrow night at the Student Activities Center is being held.

Admission at the concert will be $5. Proceeds will go directly to the Red Cross, and Phi Mu Alpha member Jamie Critchett.

The Revenue and Benefit Concert will help support some of the groups scheduled to perform.

Staying in the vision of music, Western will be holding a second benefit concert Sept. 29 at First Baptist Church.

The Evening of Rhapsody Piano Music with Sylvia Kornheiser is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Admission is $15. Proceeds are going to benefit the concert.

Many people who want to contribute think that they can't because they are only one per cent, said one.

If you go

Where: Benefit Concert
When: 7:30 p.m.

REVENUE AND BENEFIT CONCERT

10% Off
Any Purchase with this coupon

ARE YOU A GAMER?
USE YOUR SKILLS TO WIN A CAR!

REGISTRATION FORM

By filling out this registration form you agree to the rules and regulations of this tournament and that you have read and understand the terms stated. Rules and regulations are available on velko.com. They will be required to show a valid picture ID at check in.

Name:

Address:

Phone:

Birthdate:

Email Address:

Method of Payment:

The entry fee for this tournament is $20. You have 3 options available to pay the entry fee.

1. Pay online. Go to ybko.com and pay through Paypal. You will need to print out the registration form and bring it with you when you sign in.

2. You can also pay at JIMMIE'S PUGONY located at 2000 Guelph Street Owensville, KY. You may print out the form and bring it in person or mail in and bring it in or fill out one of these forms. I must accept a check or money order in the tournament. Refunds and confirmations apply.

Note: All entry fees are non-refundable. You have 3 options available to pay the entry fee.

Name:

Address:

Phone:

Birthdate:

Email Address:

Method of Payment:

The entry fee for this tournament is $20. You have 3 options available to pay the entry fee.

1. Pay online. Go to ybko.com and pay through Paypal. You will need to print out the registration form and bring it with you when you sign in.

2. You can also pay at JIMMIE'S PUGONY located at 2000 Guelph Street Owensville, KY. You may print out the form and bring it in person or mail in and bring it in or fill out one of these forms. I must accept a check or money order in the tournament. Refunds and confirmations apply.

Note: All entry fees are non-refundable. You have 3 options available to pay the entry fee.

Signature:

I understand and agree that I am responsible for any and all taxes and fees which may be possible due to my receipt of prize. I agree that I will not raise the tax on the prize. I also agree that I will not be held liable for any tax, interest, penalty, or any other fee. I also agree to indemnify, defend, and hold harmless the tournament, organizers, and sponsors of the tournament and its agents and employees against any claim, demand, or cause of action of any nature arising out of, or in any way related to, the tournament. PRIZE: One Winner of a $5,000 cash prize. The prize is payable in cash. Winner is responsible for all taxes on the prize. The prize must be claimed within 30 days of the date of notification. The prize is not transferable. Any taxes on the prize are the responsibility of the winner. The winner must be at least 18 years of age. The winner must provide a valid photo ID at the time of claim. The winner must complete and return all required documentation before the prize is awarded. The prize is subject to all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. The winner must sign and return an affidavit of eligibility and release of liability and publicity within 10 days of notification. If the winner fails to sign and return all required documentation within 10 days of notification, the prize will be forfeited and an alternate winner will be selected. The winner is responsible for all taxes on the prize. The winner must be at least 18 years of age. The winner must provide a valid photo ID at the time of claim. The winner must complete and return all required documentation before the prize is awarded. The prize is subject to all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. The winner must sign and return an affidavit of eligibility and release of liability and publicity within 10 days of notification. If the winner fails to sign and return all required documentation within 10 days of notification, the prize will be forfeited and an alternate winner will be selected. The winner is responsible for all taxes on the prize. The winner must be at least 18 years of age. The winner must provide a valid photo ID at the time of claim. The winner must complete and return all required documentation before the prize is awarded. The prize is subject to all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. The winner must sign and return an affidavit of eligibility and release of liability and publicity within 10 days of notification. If the winner fails to sign and return all required documentation within 10 days of notification, the prize will be forfeited and an alternate winner will be selected.