Dr. Albert Petersen wins the 1993 University Library Award

Dr. Albert Petersen, Professor of Geography and Geology, has been chosen by University Libraries to receive its 1993 Faculty Library Award.

Petersen was selected because he has "demonstrated a long-term involvement with and commitment to the use and development of WKU Libraries," said a letter of nomination on his behalf.

The award was presented last Tuesday at the seventh annual Western Authors Reception held at the Kentucky Museum in honor of WKU faculty who have published in the past year.

Petersen, who has been a member of Western’s faculty since 1970, complimented the WKU libraries staff. "Compared to other university libraries I have been to, I think we have the very best library and the most helpful," he said.

Petersen was nominated, say library officials, because he integrates library usage into his class instruction by assigning research papers requiring the compilation of information and using resources in several of the WKU Libraries.

Petersen incorporates the Libraries’ research instruction sessions into his class syllabi to acquaint his students with the variety of information sources available at the Libraries and how to utilize them.

And each semester his students have research instruction sessions and subsequent assignments involving the Government Services, Reference and Periodicals areas of the Helm Library as well as the Kentucky Library and the Science Library.

Nominators also said Petersen's "enthusiasm and personal use of the library for his research pursuits also serve as a role model, and he encourages learning by teaching his students the value of library resources in contributing to an educated and involved citizenry."

Petersen has worked to enhance the Libraries’ collection development efforts by serving as his department’s library representative for well over a decade.

He has spearheaded the effort to acquire for the Libraries the GeoRef CD-ROM database by successfully acquiring additional departmental book funds for its purchase. Library officials say as a result of Petersen’s efforts, WKU was one of the first libraries in the country to make this comprehensive earth sciences database available to library patrons.

And Petersen has also worked cooperatively with other departments in sharing the funding for acquiring interdisciplinary resources. Most recently, his department’s contributions helped fund the purchase of the 24-volume Tenth Census Reprint.
Congratulations, 1994 Faculty Award Winners!

The University each year recognizes outstanding contributions by faculty members in teaching, research/creativity and public service, and the following have been named recipients in each of their colleges, making them eligible for the University-wide awards which will be announced at Commencement Exercises May 8.

College of Business Administration: Award for Teaching, Dr. Dawn Bolton, Marketing; Award for Research/Creativity, Dr. Brian Goff, Economics; Award for Public Service, Dr. Lawrence Finley, Management.

College of Education and Behavioral Sciences: Award for Teaching, Alice Mikovich, Teacher Education; Award for Research/Creativity, Dr. Karlene Ball; Award for Public Service, Dr. Vernon Sheelely, Educational Leadership.

Ogden College of Science, Technology and Health: Award for Teaching, Wayne Mason, Biology; Award for Research/Creativity, Dr. Robert Hoyt, Biology; Award for Public Service, Dr. Carroll Wells, Mathematics.

Women's Studies and Support Programs present first awards

The Women's Studies and Support Program presented its first Women's Achievement Awards and named a new director at its first annual luncheon April 15.

Winners of the Seneca Falls Student Empowerment Award were Juanita Haynes, a consumer and family sciences major, and Lynne Holland, a graduate student in Student Services. The Catherine Coogan Ward Feminist Action Award went to the person for whom the award is named, Catherine Ward, Director of Women's Studies and faculty adviser to Women in Transition, also a professor of English at WKU.

Ward said her receipt of the award was entirely unexpected. She told a College Heights Herald reporter: "I didn't know I was eligible. The thought never entered my mind."

The student awards were given to women students who have overcome various barriers to obtain their college educations, and the Ward Feminist Action Award was given to a member of the Western Kentucky University community who has worked to improve conditions for women. All the honorees were given $500 checks, and individual and permanent plaques will be presented to the award winners during the Women's Studies Conference Sept. 24 and 25 on campus.

Ward, who pioneered avenues particularly for women students in transition from hardships such as divorce and financial difficulties to pursue degrees at WKU, announced at the luncheon that she will relinquish duties as Director of Women's Studies and Support Programs to Dr. Jimmie O. Price, Professor of Health Education in the Department of Public Health.

Dr. Price has served on the board of directors of Hospice of Bowling Green, Barren River Area Safe Space, the Kentucky Association for Gerontology and the Kentucky Cancer Program. She has received WKU's Faculty Excellence Award for Teaching twice, in 1980 and in 1991, and last year she received the Women in Science Award from the Bowling Green Human Rights Commission, in celebration of Women's History Month.

Dr. Price says she hopes to strengthen and expand the Women's Studies Program. She plans to network more intensely with the African American Studies Program and to involve more faculty members across the University.

"I want Women's Studies and Support Programs to be inclusive," said Price. "I hope that more male students will enroll in our classes and that the male faculty and administrators will take a more active part in the program. "Women's Studies is not an all-women club. We do not want to discriminate or exclude anyone."

Artist incognito: The secret life of Todd Duren

Shh! Todd Duren's work is a secret.
Although many people are aware of his graphic design work at the Kentucky Museum, few people realize he also is an exhibiting fine artist.
Duren is an artist incognito: hanging museum exhibits and designing brochures by day, constructing his unusual, provocative sculptures by night and on weekends.
Duren says juggling two careers is a challenge. "My freelance graphic design work helps finance my studio projects, and my studio work keeps my creative muscles toned for design," says the artist.
His exhibit at Zephyr Gallery in Louisville could raise his visibility a bit. Although he has shown his work at the Capitol in Bowling Green and at WKU's Ivan Wilson Center Gallery, this is the first large show Duren's had in two years, and it features many new works.
The exhibit will run May 9 through June 24 at the Zephyr, 812 Main St., in Louisville, and Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturdays, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

For third consecutive year,
University Relations staff among top Ky. communicators

Office of University Relations staff members brought home nine awards from the annual Blue Pencil/Gold Screen Awards recognition luncheon in Frankfort this month, sponsored by the Kentucky Association of Government Communicators.

Communicators from Kentucky's state government, local and county governments, related non-profit agencies and Kentucky universities were recognized for entries in the annual competition.
Awards were given in three categories: first place, Award of Excellence; second place, Award of Merit and Certificate of Achievement.

The Award of Excellence went to Sheila Conway Eison, Coordinator of Internal Communication, Editor of On Campus, in the category of Periodicals for Technical or Professional Audiences; Tom Meacham, Coordinator of Publication Services, designer of Western Alumnus, in the category of Periodicals for a General Audience; for a Cherry Society Dinner Invitation in the category of Visual Design-Miscellaneous; with David Finlayson, Graphic Designer, for a brochure for the WKU Department of Music in the category of Publication for a General Audience; and Jeff Younglove, Coordinator for Radio-TV Services, for half-time programs in the category of Audio Programs, up to five minutes.

The Award of Merit went to Bob Skipper, Coordinator of News Services, for a story on the dedication of the J.T. Sendefur Auditorium in the category of News Releases; and Younglove, for the Hall of distinguished Alumni Video, co-produced with Cheryl Beckley of WKYU-TV, in the category of Video Programs, feature length five minutes or longer.

The Certificate of Achievement went to Younglove for a 30-second men's basketball promotional video, co-produced with Jay Miller of WKYU-TV, in the category of Videos/Film Programs, PSA's up to 60 seconds; and Skipper for a story on neutron research in the category of Feature Releases.

Judges for the competition were from the Texas chapter of the National Association of Government Communicators.
This is the third year for the KAGC competitions, and WKU's staff have had winning entries every year.
The KAGC is a professional development organization for professionals in the field of communication in government.

WELLNESS CENTER NEWS

Exercise America! Just do it.

Any amount of exercise is beneficial to your health and well-being; the key is to just do it! The new ACSM guidelines suggest that 30 minutes of activity each day—whether it is climbing stairs, housework, walking, or working out—can improve health and longevity.

To get you going on the road to better fitness, the Wellness Center is again sponsoring Exercise America, an exercise incentive program for faculty, staff, and their families. It’s easy and fun to participate. You can sign up individually or as a team. All participants who complete the “Route 66” journey will win a colorful 100% cotton t-shirt plus “I Got Fit on Route 66” certificate. For more details or registration materials, call the Wellness Center @ 745-6531.

Presidential Sports Award Program

Sign up for the Presidential Sports Award Program, a four-month incentive program designed to keep you active throughout the summer. This program emphasizes regular exercise rather than outstanding performance. Here’s how it works: 1) Sign up any time between April 15-30 at the Wellness Center to get your log form; there is a $6 registration fee; 2) You have until September 15 to complete the goal of a minimum or 50 hours of exercise in whatever category you select (or choose several); 3) Those who achieve their goal in one or more categories will receive an Award Packet and be recognized at a special Awards ceremony and reception. Call for more information or registration materials, 745-6531.

“Sneak Into Work!” Day

On Friday, April 29, put your best foot forward. Step out of the usual, and into comfort. Wear your sneakers to work for one day...just for the health of it! As a bonus, come by the Wellness Center in the Raymond B. Preston Health and Activities Center, Room 108, between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., to register for one of two free sets of football tickets to the Tennessee vs. Kentucky game (Nov. 19th in Knoxville) and, by popular demand, the Western vs. Eastern kickoff game (Sept. 1 @ WKU). You must have your tennis shoes on to qualify!

Camp Big Red

Camp Big Red is being sponsored by the Preston Center this summer for WKU faculty and staff children and their friends. Camp days and times are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until noon, and fees are:

Swim Team only: $40 for the summer; Day Camp only, one week, $30 weekly; Entire Summer (10 weeks) $300 and Swim Team $340.

Each additional family member will receive a 25 percent discount. Eligible children are ages six to 15 years old. If you have any questions, call 5216.

Faculty Development Committee

The Faculty Development Committee will meet the second Friday each month to consider applications for funding. Applications must be received in the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs by the last Friday of each month, dates varying to accommodate holidays.

For application materials and guidelines, contact either your college dean’s office or the Office of Academic Affairs, 2296.

WKU Public Radio wins ‘Best in State’

For the fifth straight year, WKU’s Public Radio Service has won the “Best in the State” award for the top radio news story in Kentucky. The winning entry, “The Blue Plate Special,” was an in-depth look at vehicle registration problems in Kentucky. It aired Nov. 29, 1993.

The 30-minute report included interviews with law enforcement officials, revenue cabinet spokespersons and the man who started the “Freddie the Freeroader” effort which provides a toll-free number for reporting those suspected of violating vehicle registration laws. News Director Dan Modlin said the report required a significant amount of research.

“It took some extra effort to come up with the documentation and to interview guests, but we felt the effort was worthwhile,” Modlin said. “Vehicle registration problems have been costing the state of Kentucky several million dollars per year.”

The “Blue Plate Special” was a team effort. In addition to Modlin and Assistant News Director Jeannine Howard, WKYU-FM reporter Kevin Ingram and student interns Todd Gibb and Stephanie Gibney contributed material for the program.

The “Best in the State” competition is administered by the Kentucky Broadcasters Association.

Watch 'Dawn at the Derby' on WKYU-TV

For the fourth consecutive year, WKYU-TV brings south central Kentucky a unique look at the 1994 Kentucky Derby contenders in a five-part series airing the week preceding the Derby. Shot on location at Churchill Downs, Dawn at the Downs brings you a close-up look at the horses taking their morning workouts, plus behind-the-scenes action and all the pageantry of the 1994 run for the roses.

The series is produced by WKPC in Louisville. Segments include features from the backside, up-to-the-minute news about Derby contenders, on-the-rail activities, a report on the social scene, traditional Derby recipes and interviews with visiting celebrities, jockeys and horse owners and trainers. Dawn at the Downs will air Monday through Friday, May 2 through May 6 at 7 p.m. on Channel 24, WKYU-TV, the Public Television Service of Western Kentucky University. This series is underwritten by Trans Financial Bank.

For more information, contact Melinda Craft, Development Manager, 6487.

1994 Commencement

Sunday, May 8, 3 p.m.

E.A. Diddle Arena

Faculty and staff are invited and encouraged to participate in the opening procession of the annual Commencement exercises. The pride Western feels in our graduates is reflected in the beauty and pageantry of this significant event.

Academic Apparel

Rental arrangements for academic apparel should be made immediately with the College Heights Bookstore. The apparel will be distributed from the Customer Service Counter in the Bookstore and should be returned to the Bookstore after the ceremony.

For a limited time and on a limited basis, a number of poplin bachelors' and masters' gowns are available from the Bookstore at no cost to you. These gowns were formerly used by student commencement participants and are still in good condition. Also available are a few WKU master's hoods. Contact the Bookstore at 2467 for more information.

Assembly

Faculty and staff participants should assemble in the Auxiliary Gym of Diddle Arena dressed in academic regalia and in line by 2:40 p.m. Marshals will indicate the marching route and the proper seating arrangement. Accommodations are available for participants with disabilities. Contact Freida Eggleston, Registrar, 5432, with special requests.

It is suggested that participants arrive on campus early to avoid delays resulting from congested traffic conditions.
