Robert Penn Warren Symposium

Honoring 'All The King’s Men'

The ninth annual Robert Penn Warren Symposium will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the publication of the author’s Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, All The King’s Men, Sunday, April 21.

The day’s activities will begin with a 10 a.m. showing of the film, All The King’s Men, in Room 125 of Cherry Hall, followed by 12:30 p.m. Brunch in the Garrett Center Ballroom. Tickets are $25 and may be purchased from Mary Ellen Miller, Professor of English (502-745-5721).

The 2 p.m. Symposium in Garrett Center’s Theresa Gerard Auditorium will feature selected readings from All the King’s Men by Horse Cave Theatre Director Warren Hammack, a member of the Warren Advisory Group, Pamela White of HCT and Warren authority Dr. Raymond Betts, Professor of History at the University of Kentucky.

During its season this past year, Horse Cave Theatre, supported by a grant from the Kentucky Humanities Council, collaborated with the 50th anniversary celebration of Warren’s work with the production of All The King’s Men and a series of forums to discuss the political questions raised by the play, which follows the political rise and fall of Willie Stark, who rises from a simple life on the farm to governor of Louisiana.

A reception in the Robert Penn Warren Room in Cherry Hall will follow at 3:30 p.m. All activities except brunch are free, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

An addition to this year’s activities also will be presentation of an award in honor of Kentucky-born Warren and Cleanth Brooks, a collaborator and friend of Warren, and a member of the Robert Penn Warren Committee until his death two years ago.

Both men are credited with changing the way poetry is taught in university classroom after the publication of their textbook, Understanding Poetry, in 1938. They also wrote textbooks for other areas of literature. The Robert Penn Warren/Cleanth Brooks Award, to be presented at the Symposium, will recognize outstanding literary criticism "that exemplifies Warren/Brooks innovative, critical interpretation of literature in spirit, scope and integrity,” says Miller, who is vice chair of the Robert Penn Warren Center Committee.

The Robert Penn Warren Advisory Group, which is composed of well-known scholars in American literature and Warren’s works, established the prestigious award for criticism, and Joy Bales Boone, Chair of the Warren Committee, says the award takes on special meaning with the death this year of Warren’s widow, Eleanor Clark Warren. The $1,000 award comes from funds established by the Warrens’ estate. Candidates for the award were nominated by members of the Warren Advisory Group. They have works published between Jan. 1, 1994 and Sept. 30, 1995, originally published in English and in the United States. Warren, who was born in Guthrie, Ky. in 1905 and named the first Poet Laureate of the United States in 1986, published in every major genre, including 10 novels and 17 volumes of poetry.

WKU’s Department of English has Warren scholars on its faculty, and with friends of the University and other Warren scholars from across the country, established the Robert Penn Warren Committee in 1986. The Robert Penn Warren Center, which houses Warren memorabilia and is designated as a place for scholarly activities, opened in 1988.

Warren died in 1989. In 1992, his family gave the author’s personal working library to the Robert Penn Warren Center, and every year in April, in honor of the author’s birthday, the Center conducts a symposium, attracting Warren scholars from around the world.

First Warren/Brooks Award goes to southern writer Lewis P. Simpson

Louisiana State University Boyd Professor Emeritus Lewis P. Simpson has been selected as the first recipient of the Robert Penn Warren/Cleanth Brooks Award for his book, The Fable of the Southern Writer.

The Warren/Brooks Award recognizes outstanding literary criticism, originally published in English in the United States of America, that exemplifies the Warren/Brooks innovative, critical interpretation of literature in spirit, scope, and integrity. The award honors the two native Kentuckians who distinguished themselves in teaching, in scholarship, and in literature, and it promotes the values for which they stood.

The first recipient of the Warren/Brooks Award is a native of Jacksboro, Texas. He was co-editor of the new series of The Southern Review, originally founded by Warren and Brooks, and he now serves as consulting editor.

Dr. Barbara G. Burch named VP, Academic Affairs

By Bob Skipper, Coordinator, News Services

Dr. Barbara G. Burch has been named Vice President for Academic Affairs at Western Kentucky University.

Dr. Burch is Dean of the School of Education and Human Development at California State University, Fresno, a position she has held since 1989.

"Dr. Burch brings a wealth of experience and enthusiasm to this important leadership position on our campus," WKU President Thomas C. Meredith said. "She has earned a national reputation because of her ability and good works. She has the enthusiasm and the talent to lead Moving to a New Level and to make sure that it gets in place very soon."

Dr. Burch has a bachelor's degree in English from Western, a master's degree in education from Indiana University and a doctorate in curriculum from IU.

She said being a Western graduate played a role in her decision to return to the University. "I think there's something about having been a Western graduate that always keeps you feeling close to the University," Dr. Burch said. "I'm a Kentuckian by birth and so the geography of it and past experience had a lot to do with it."

While the past is important, Dr. Burch said she was very excited by Western's future.

"The most important thing (influencing her decision) is my feeling about the direction in which Western is heading, the role of higher education and the feeling that it might be an opportunity for me to be a part of a university that is moving in some very significant directions," she said.

"I think all of us value old traditions, which was part of 'Moving to a New Level,' but I think most of all, universities have to be a major player in the changing of educational opportunities for all of our young people," Dr. Burch said. "I think it's a theme that reflects the willingness of the University to look at change as something that is good, healthy and that doesn't have to do away with all of the kinds of good things that you've done in the past."

Dr. Burch is expected to start at Western by July 1.

President Meredith held a reception for the new vice president and her husband, Dr. Kenneth Burch, on campus April 15.

Prior to California State-Fresno, Dr. Burch was at Memphis State University, where she was associate dean and director of graduate studies in the College of Education, assistant vice president for academic affairs for academic programs, interim dean of the College of Education and director of the Center of Excellence in Teacher Education.

Dr. Robert Haynes announced his resignation as academic affairs vice president in October, effective when a replacement is named.

Entire campus is networked

President Meredith responds to electronic mail from faculty and students. A biology faculty member downloads an animated model of viruses from the Internet to use in class—or on the course's web page.

A senior communications student, in his residence hall room, browses the Internet for the latest developments in advanced television.

These are all commonplace occurrences at WKU where computing access has joined telephone and electricity as a basic utility.

The University is among a small number of institutions nationally whose campus is entirely networked.

"All residence hall rooms, classrooms, laboratories and offices are wired and connected to the high-speed fiber optics backbone providing access to WKUNET, and opening the door to a new world of information," says Dr. Charles M. Anderson, Assistant Vice President for Finance and Administration.

"This is the centerpiece of our commitment to the use of information technology to enhance the educational experience of Western Kentucky University," says WKU President Thomas C. Meredith.

"Residence halls networked for computer access and cable television, a networked campus, computer laboratories, a computer for every faculty member, an interactive television network, a public radio network and a public television station all place Western Kentucky University among the leaders in the use of information technology as we move to a new level of educational excellence," WKU's President says.

WKUNET recently was nominated for the Smithsonian Award in Networking.

On Campus

'Like our new look?'

We hope you like the new look of On Campus. About this time last year, On Campus doubled its circulation and expanded readership. We began mailing the publication to friends of the University, and placing issues in selected professional offices in the area.

The change required design of a bulk mailing area, which needed to be exposed, but this compromised our front page. Every issue looked the same. Yuckky!

Also, we have combined the About You and Hot off the Press sections for simplicity.

Please keep sending us your achievements!
Faculty and staff are invited and encouraged to participate in the opening processional of the Commencement exercises. Western's pride in its graduates is reflected in the beauty and pageantry of this annual event.

Academic Apparel

Rental arrangements for academic apparel should be made immediately with the College Heights Bookstore. The apparel will be distributed from the Customer Service Counter in the Bookstore and should be returned to the Bookstore after the ceremony.

A limited number of caps and poplin bachelor's gowns are available at the Bookstore at no cost to you. These gowns were formerly used by student commencement participants and are still in good condition. Also available are a few WKU master's hoods. Contact the Bookstore at 2467 for more information.

Assembly

Faculty and staff participants should assemble in the Auxiliary Gym of Diddle Arena dressed in academic regalia and in line by 1:40 p.m. Marshals will indicate the marching route and the proper seating arrangement. Accommodations are available for participants with disabilities. Contact Freida Eggleton, Registrar, at 5432 to identify your needs for assistance.

It is suggested that participants arrive on campus early to avoid delays resulting from congested traffic conditions.

Receptions

Receptions in Downing University Center honoring all graduates, their families and guests will be held immediately following the ceremony. All faculty and staff are invited and encouraged to attend.

Warren/Brooks Award

Simpson's book considers "the drama of the literary self in quest of its historical identity." His work exemplifies what Robert Penn Warren said of him in the early 1980s: "He is one of the brightest, most perceptive literary critics writing in the latter half of this century."

Besides editing several books, he is author of The Man of Letters in New England and the South, The Dispossessed Garden, The Brazen Face of History, Mind in the American Civil War and a chapbook of poems, The Circus by the Cemetery.

His essays have appeared in such prestigious journals as the Sewanee Review, the Georgia Review, the New England Quarterly and the Partisan Review.

Simpson has lectured widely and also has served as consultant and participant in various television documentaries.

He has been recognized by various awards, such as fellowship grants from the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities, an honorary doctor of letters from the University of the South, Louisiana Humanist of the Year Award, Louisiana Endowment for the Humanities, the Hubbell Medal for Distinguished Contribution to the Study of American Literature.

He is a Fellow of the Saint George Tucker Society and a Fellow of the Fellowship of Southern Writers, which in April 1995 awarded him the Cleanth Brooks Medal for Distinguished Achievement in Southern Letters.

An assessment of Simpson's work at the time of his retirement may be found in American Letters and the Historical Consciousness: Essays in Honor of Lewis P. Simpson (1987).
Dr. Janet Benton and Dr. Pat Daniel, School of Integrative Studies, Teacher Education, presented Breaking the Silence: Discussing Diversity in Teacher Education Courses at the American Association of Colleges of Teacher Education in Chicago.

Dr. Catherine Carey, Economics, presented The Role of International Trade in Technological Change: The Case of U.S. Manufactures at the Missouri Valley Economic Association meetings in Memphis, Tenn. She also chaired and discussed papers presented in a session on International Trade.

Nancy Carwell, Assistant Director of Educational Talent Search, TRIO Programs, and a team of 15 Kentuckians spoke in Washington, D.C. with all eight Kentucky Senators and Representatives on behalf of the TRIO Programs, Educational Talent Search, Federal Trios Training Program, Student Support Services, Upward Bound and Veterans Upward Bound.

Dr. David Coffey, Professor of Agriculture, has been awarded a $10,600 grant from the National Organization of Future Farmers of America to study ways students benefit from participating in FFA events.

Dr. Don Collins, School of Integrative Studies in Teacher Education, presented Mathematics Assessment Kentucky Style at the conference on Teaching of Secondary Mathematics at Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, Tex.

Dr. Claus Ernst, Mathematics, presented Knot energies by ropes, a joint work with Yuyuan Diao of Kennesaw State College and Essias J. Janse van Rensburg of New York University in the special session on Physical Knot Theory at the American Mathematical Society meeting at the University of Iowa.

Dr. Joe Glaser, English, read a paper on Magical Seeing in Book II of the Aenid at the Kentucky Philological Association meeting at Morehead State University. Also, his last year's KPA paper, Aenid V and the Moral Vision of the Aenid has been chosen best in its section and then selected for publication as well in this year's Philological Review.

Dr. Michael Kallstrom, Music, gave a lecture/recital on the creative process for the Mississippi State University Honors Program last month. His composition, AROUND THE CLOCK, also was featured on a faculty recital as part of his visit. His composition, EASTERN BRILLIANCE, was performed on a featured concert of the Southeast Horn Society Conference at the University of Delaware, and his composition, CLOUDY, for eight horns, also was commissioned and premiered by the Professors Ensemble at the conference on the finale concert March 24.

Dr. H.Y. Kim, Economics, presented Commodity Rates of Interest and Intertemporal Substitution in Consumption at the 22nd annual meeting of the Eastern Economic Association in Boston, Mass. Dr. Kim also served as a discussant for papers on Money & Banking.

Dr. Kathi Matthew, School of Integrative Studies, Teacher Education, presented Gender Equity in the Science Classroom at the regional meeting of the National Science Teachers Association and Gender Equity in the Mathematics Classroom at the regional meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics in Rapid City, South Dakota. Matthew and Alice Mikovich presented Gender Equity in Education at the Association for Teachers of Education in St. Louis.

Alice Mikovich and Dr. Don Collins, School of Integrative Studies in Teacher Education, co chaired the meeting of the Kentucky Council of Teachers of Mathematics.
