WKU Regents announce presidential search process

By Bob Skipper

The Western Kentucky University Board of Regents at a special meeting last week appointed an 11-member search committee to begin looking for a new president. The Board’s executive committee also set a March 10 meeting to hear presentations from five firms seeking to become consultants in the search for a replacement for President Thomas C. Meredith, who is leaving Western to become chancellor of the University of Alabama system.

The search committee will be chaired by Cornelius A. Martin of Bowling Green, a member of the Board of Regents. Other regents on the committee include: Kristen Bale of Glasgow, Earl Fischer of Owensboro and Peggy Loanman of Bowling Green.

Faculty Regent Ray Monell and Blaine Ferrell, Biology Department head, will represent the faculty. Student Regent Kristen Miller, president of the Student Government Association, will represent the students. Registrar Freida Eggleton will represent staff.

Gary Broady of Franklin, president of Franklin Bank and Trust and immediate past president of the WKU Alumni Association, will represent alumni. Will Cooksey of Bowling Green, manager of the Corvette Assembly Plant, and Mike Harris of Russellville, president of Logan Aluminum, will represent the business community.

Regents Chair Peggy Loanman said she was looking for broad representation on the committee without making it too large. She added that she proposed an odd number of committee members to prevent any tie votes.

The committee appointments were approved by the board following a meeting of the regent’s executive committee, which reviewed proposals from five search consulting firms.

Loanman said Regents felt they needed more information before choosing the firm that will help lead the University in the search process.

Memo from the President to WKU faculty and staff

The following memo was sent Feb. 7 to WKU faculty and staff following his announcement that Dr. Thomas C. Meredith will resign as President of Western, effective May 15:

You have been faced this week with rumors and news reports concerning my career. As we have tried to do in the past on numerous issues, I want to provide you with the information directly from me on this matter.

I have accepted the position of Chancellor of the University of Alabama System. The System includes three campuses: the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa (UA), the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB), and the University of Alabama at Huntsville (UAH).

These three campuses combine have approximately 44,000 students and a budget of approximately $1.3 billion. All three are exceptionally strong institutions. Each campus has a President. I will work for the Governing Board that has responsibility for all three campuses.

Contrary to unconfirmed reports, I did not apply for this position. I have been perfectly happy serving as President of this fine University. However, the search firm hired by the Board of Trustees of the Alabama System contacted me and asked if I would be willing to be considered. After much deliberation and prayer, I decided to accept the offer to lead the University of Alabama System. I have been at Western for eight-and-one-half years, which is in contrast to the four-and-one-half-year average tenure of public university presidents today.

Western Kentucky University is now financially sound, and the pathway has been charted for academic excellence. Numerous maintenance projects (approximately $17 million) are funded and are ready to be implemented if they are not already under way. Our development activities are well on the way. We are blessed to have an outstanding team of executive officers and lay Board members who are knowledgeable and unselfish in their desire to see Western move forward.

In my opinion, the stage is set for a new leadership to take this institution to the next level.

I will assume the Chancellor’s position full-time on June 1, 1997, but will make frequent trips to Alabama in the meantime. However, please know that my full energies will be devoted to building a healthy budget for 1997-98 and to preparing for the Governor’s special session on higher education later this semester.

Susan and I want to thank the large number of you who were kind enough to leave us nice messages or who greeted us personally last evening upon our return. We have gladly invested eight-and-one-half years of our lives in trying to be of assistance to my alma mater. Thank you for your support.
WKU appoints two new college development officers

John Paul Blair and Rick DuBose join the Institutional Advancement staff at Western Kentucky University this month as collegiate directors of development.

Blair and DuBose will be key fund raisers offering for WKU, said Fred Hensley, vice president for Institutional Advancement. "They will take a leadership role in Western's first major gift campaign and will be responsible for raising funds to support Western's academic mission," Hensley said. "The addition of John Paul and Rick will greatly enhance and support our efforts to secure private support for Western's academic programs."

Blair has been serving as director of development at Campbellsville University, helping Campbellsville with its capital campaign. He is a master's degree candidate at Vanderbilt University and a graduate of WKU and LaRue County High School in Hodgenville.

He has received several awards from the Kentucky chapter of the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education and has been inducted into the LaRue County High School Hall of Fame.

DuBose resigned as president of the Hopkinsville-Christian County Chamber of Commerce to take the job at WKU. Before moving to Hopkinsville, DuBose was vice president of the Bowling Green-Warren County Chamber of Commerce and a sales manager for several radio and television stations in the Bowling Green area. He is also a WKU graduate. He is a member of Leadership Kentucky, and has served as president of the Bowling Green Noon Rotary, Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Executives, Landmark Association and Salvation Army Advisory Board.

The Bowling Green-Western Choral Society presents

MUSIC FROM

CLASSIC AMERICAN

FILMS

Solo and Choral Songs from the 1930s-1990s

with the Bowling Green-Western Choral Society
University Chamber Singers
Guest Vocalists:
Saturday, March 8, 1997 8 p.m.
Van Meter Auditorium
Admission: $6.00
Ticket reservations: 745-5915

Youth study abroad deadline is March 15

The Center for Gifted Studies at Western Kentucky University is offering the opportunity for eighth grade and high school honors students and interested adults to study abroad.

The British Experience June 4-18 includes visits to Edinburgh, Melrose Abbey, Perth, Manchester, Conwy Castle and London. The cost is $2,375 and includes airfare, hotel, breakfast, a ticket to one theatre performance in London and admission to must sites. The program has 25 openings and an application and $500 deposit are due by March 15.

Eligible students must have two letters of recommendation from teachers, principals or school counselors.

For more information, contact Julia Roberts, director of the WKU Center for Gifted Studies, at (502) 745-6229.

Send timely items for consideration in On Campus by Feb. 15.

Climb the Hill Every Morning! WKU news, sports, and event information is just part of what you receive with At-Western. At-Western is a daily electronic mail message that keeps alumni and friends in touch with WKU.

To subscribe:
1) Address an e-mail to MXSERVER@WKU.EDU.
2) In the body of the message, type SUBSCRIBE At-Western your name.
3) Make sure your reply contains your real name.
   For example: SUBSCRIBE At-Western John Doe
   In a few minutes, you'll receive a confirmation message and a short questionnaire.

Questions? Direct e-mail to Western@wkusu.org.

Donald W. Zacharias Hall

The Western Kentucky University Board of Regents will name one of the University's newest residence halls for Donald W. Zacharias, president of Mississippi State University, who was president at Western from 1979 to 1985.

"Dr. Zacharias helped raise academic standards, develop a strategic plan, and establish the first comprehensive development program at Western," said WKU President Thomas C. Meredith. "He served as a leader and spokesperson for higher education in Kentucky and the Commonwealth."

Dr. Meredith said a ceremony honoring Dr. Zacharias will be planned in the near future.

On Campus Western Kentucky University March 1997

Regents reorganize Business College

The WKU Board of Regents at its regular meeting last month approved a plan to reorganize the University's College of Business Administration.

The reorganization consolidates the College's current six departments to three: Accounting and Finance, Economics and Marketing, and Management and Information Systems.

The changes will improve the collective efforts of faculty and staff in meeting the mission for instruction, service and research, said WKU President Thomas C. Meredith.

The changes and internal reallocation of funds will enable about $30,000 to be directed toward faculty and instructional equipment, student and faculty leadership activities and support for research.

In other business, the board:
• Approved establishment of a Community College Preparation Certificate Program. The program is designed to make certificate holders more competitive and better prepared to teach in the community college environment. It consists of three courses that would be combined with an appropriate master's degree.
• Approved the creation of the position of associate vice president for Academic Affairs for enrollment management. The position will be responsible for the recruitment and retention of students and the continuing effort to increase the quality of students.

On Campus

1996 Award of Excellence, Kentucky Council for the Advancement and Support of Education

1996 Blue Pencil Award of Merit, Kentucky Association of Government Communicators

On Campus is published monthly by the Office of University Relations, containing information of interest to faculty and staff and friends of Western, Sheila Elson, Editor.

On Campus does not represent any special interest group. If opinions are stated in any copy, material is attributed. We reserve the right to accept or reject any material.

Send correspondence to On Campus, Office of University Relations, Western Kentucky University, 1 Big Red Way, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101-3576.

1996 Award of Excellence, Kentucky Council for the Advancement and Support of Education

1996 Blue Pencil Award of Merit, Kentucky Association of Government Communicators

On Campus is published monthly by the Office of University Relations, containing information of interest to faculty and staff and friends of Western, Sheila Elson, Editor.

On Campus does not represent any special interest group. If opinions are stated in any copy, material is attributed. We reserve the right to accept or reject any material.

Send correspondence to On Campus, Office of University Relations, Western Kentucky University, 1 Big Red Way, Bowling Green, Ky. 42101-3576.
Sylvia reveals her 'little-known secret'

By Sheila Conomy Eisen

Everyone who knows Sylvia Kersenbaum is aware that she is an internationally renowned pianist. Her name is immediately associated with performance. But few know she is also a composer of music.

"You might think of it like this: you had the skills and had to make a choice, would you spend your life as a brain surgeon or expert in heart transplants? If you're in music, particularly classical music, the intensity of both composition and performance can be balanced by the very few.

For the past 30 years, the stage and teaching have received Sylvia's full attention. But now, an old love has come back to her life."

"My first love was really composition, she confesses. 'But it has been eclipsed by a career in piano performance,' WKU's Professor of Music explains, adding, 'It's like a secret, known only by a few.'

With no regrets, however, because the 30-year span from 1966, when, as a budding piano artist she first took some of her compositions to publishers, until now, has included a fulfilling career, and establishment of the name Sylvia Kersenbaum in the highest musical circles worldwide.

LAST WINTER, SYLVIA RECEIVED A CALL FROM ONE OF THOSE PUBLISHERS ASKING HER PERMISSION TO PUBLISH HER WORK

Her little-known secret, however, is soon to be made known to the world, because last winter, Sylvia received a call from one of those publishers asking her permission to publish her work, starting with three choral compositions. They will be distributed both here and overseas. And there will be more.

'I feel like my life is just starting,' says the Argentine-born artist who has shared her solid reputation as a seasoned performer with Western's Music Department for the past 20 years as a professor of music.

'Every day I see new possibilities; it's just a matter of setting priorities,' Sylvia says, as she now juggles reworking some of her compositions with her present hectic teaching and performing.

Even before she could read or write, Sylvia started to write compositions, she recalls. As a child, she had 50 or so in her repertoire. She played them by ear, so her mother, a violinist, began to give her lessons.

When given exercises in theory, assigned to write three or four bars of music, she would produce an entire composition.

"But it was a short-lived career," she says, even though she holds a degree in composition from the National Conservatory in Buenos Aires.

Some of her more large scale works include a full score ballet, based on Edgar Allan Poe's 'The Masque of the Red Death,' a comic opera; a cantata for solo choir and orchestra and several choral compositions.

Recounting the time when she dropped off her pieces at publishers, Sylvia reflected, "It was also a time when I went to Europe and started a career playing. My compositions took a back seat. I have written occasionally, but not much in these last 30 years." And she says a main reason is because of the mental and physical overload in doing both writing and performing.

"When I do write, as I am now, reworking one of my pieces, I find that it is so absorbing that it is difficult to practice and to do concerts too. It's rather strange to go back to writing, but it also is rejuvenating."

Another project she has going is the release of her recordings onto a Compact Disk, coming out in July.

"People are beginning to ask me if I will come back to composing after I retire, and that is a possibility," Sylvia says, wanting to revise her ballet as a first priority. "I would love to see it performed." Sylvia was instrumental in my father, who worked for the Associated Press for more than 40 years, once showed me a photograph of a group of Jews in a concentration camp, emaciated and naked, lined up to be executed, while a string quartet of equally emaciated musicians, ordered by a crazed monster named Hitler, played music. That is my music.

"During World War II, however, the underground radio in Poland used Chopin's music because they couldn't read their poetry."

"Then, after the war, when Poland was dominated by Com-
Dr. Rick Aldridge and Dr. Jan Colbert, Accounting, had Business Reporting—An Auditors Perspective published in the Ohio CPA Journal, Nov.-Dec. 1996.

The Alumni Affairs Office recently won an Award of Excellence for the office's entry, WKU Alumni Association, in the Alumni Relations Programs category of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) District III Awards competition. The category asks for successful programs designed to improve and sustain good relationships with alumni.

Dr. Michael Kallstrom of the Department of Music received a performance of his composition, AROUND THE CLOCK, this past fall at the University of Costa Rica. The work will be performed again there by May by Costa Rican saxophonist, Jose Valerio.

Both Dr. Kallstrom and Dr. Charles W. Smith, also of the music faculty, recently were awarded Individual Artists Fellowships in Music Composition ($5000) by the Kentucky Arts Council.

Dr. H.Y. Kim's (Economics) article, Inverse Demand Systems and Welfare Measurement in Quantity Space, was published in the Southern Economic Journal in January, pp. 663-679.

serving as a panelist in January on The Governing Board-Foundation Board Relationship at a Leadership Forum for Public College and University Foundations at a meeting of the Association of Governing Boards; and in February at a Major Symposium: Reforming Higher Education at the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education annual meeting.

Next month, with Dr. Charles Anderson, Vice President for Information Technology, and Peggy Loofman, Chair of the University Board of Regents, Dr. Meredith will participate in a Breakfast Roundtable Discussion, Networking a Campus: Planning, Strategies, and Financing at the Association of Governing Boards (AGB) National Conference on Trusteeship. He will also serve as a panelist on Fostering Effective Governance at the Association of Governing Boards (AGB) National Conference on Trusteeship.

David Neal, Mathematics, has had Goodness of Fit Tests for Normality published in Mathematica in Education and Research, Vol. 5 No. 2, pp. 23-30.

Tom Richmond of Mathematics recently was appointed to the editorial board of Topology Atlas, an electronic clearinghouse of information on all aspects of topology. The site (www.unipissing.ca/topology) includes reprints, conference schedules, abstracts of conference talks, research announcements and open problems, among other things.

Tom Tutino, Theatre and Dance, recently designed the scenery for a production of The Witch of Blackbird Pond for Stage One at the Kentucky Center for the Arts in Louisville.

Gary Hairlison, Photo Editor, Pensacola News Journal, has won the 1996 Gannett Newspaper Newspaper supervisor Recognition Award. Hairlison is a former staff member of the WKU Office of University Relations, where he served as the first University Photographer.

An article, "Governing Boards: and Their Roles in the Restructuring of Higher Education," published in Governing Boards; and Their Roles in the Restructuring of Higher Education, published in Governing Boards; and Their Roles in the Restructuring of Higher Education. Published by the Association of Governing Boards (AGB) National Conference on Trusteeship. This is the first book under the imprint of the Governing Boards (AGB) National Conference on Trusteeship Series.

Looking for Faculty Advisers

The Brothers Alpha Phi Omega Coeducational Service Fraternity are looking for three faculty advisers to the organization.

They're having an Interest Meeting March 13 at 8 p.m. at a location to be determined. If you're interested, call one of the following three brothers, Chris Duben, President, 745-2358; Traci Surgeon, 745-6677; Thomas Westwood, Vice President, 745-2842.

Greek honorary award

A Western Kentucky University senior from Evansville has been awarded a scholarship by Order of Omega National Greek Honor Society.

Jeff Yan, a psychology and biology major, received the $500 scholarship, which recognizes scholarly achievements, leadership and citizenship among Order of Omega members in the United States and Canada. Only 50 such scholarships were awarded nationally.

Yan serves as president of the WKU chapter of Order of Omega.

WKU students received 10 of the 17 awards announced at the Hearst Journalism Competition banquet Feb. 10 at the Omni Cincinnati Hotel in Cincinnati.

Six finalists from that field will compete in the national championship, which will be announced at the Hearst Journalism Awards Program in New York City May 4.

WKU students finished first and second in the overall competition for seven scholarships and first in the highest accumulated school per capita/total/personality categories. The highest accumulated school points from the first of three photo competitions. Western has won the overall competition for seven consecutive years.

The top four students in each of the photo competitions will submit additional photos for judging. The six finalists from that field will compete in the national championships in San Francisco.

Send items to 'On Campus' by the 15th to guarantee publication.
Owensboro interactive classroom opens

Western Kentucky University President Thomas C. Meredith hosted Owensboro area officials for the official opening of WKU's third interactive television distance learning classroom at the WKU-Owensboro campus Feb. 25.

During the ceremony, the new Owensboro facility was linked with a new distance learning classroom in the University's College of Business Administration on the Bowling Green campus. Business College Dean Robert Jefferson made a presentation from that location detailing the college's new MBA program and its special relationship with Owensboro and the surrounding area.

The new Owensboro classroom has a capacity of 18 students. Dr. Marilyn Brookman, director of the WKU-Owensboro campus, said: "Our new distance learning classroom is equipped with the latest interactive television equipment and can be interconnected with any of Western's 13 other distance learning classrooms or with similar facilities at universities throughout the Commonwealth. In addition to being available for college course work, the facility will be available to campus administrators and faculty, governments and businesses who wish to participate in teleconferences and in-service training opportunities without having to travel great distances."

Western has been a pioneer in distance learning via interactive television. The University delivered its first telecourse offerings in Owensboro in 1984 and has the longest history of interactive television service in the Commonwealth.

This semester, Western is offering 33 courses to 802 students at extended campuses via interactive television. During the fall semester, 775 students at extended WKU campuses were enrolled in 30 courses.

Western's distance learning service allows residents in the University's service region to enroll in college courses for credit without having to travel to the main campus in Bowling Green.

In addition to the three interactive television classrooms on the Owensboro campus, the University now operates four at its Bowling Green campus, two at the Glasgow campus, one at Ft. Knox, one at the Russellville Chamber of Commerce, and one at Elizabethtown, Taylor County and Russell County high schools. Plans call for two additional rooms to be located in Western's new Community College facility in Bowling Green.

WKU helps from welfare to work

WKU Campus Child Care (WKUCCC) is helping welfare recipients make the transition from being on welfare to holding a job. WKUCCC, the Housing Authority of Bowling Green and the Department for Social Insurance have received a grant from the Cabinet for Human Resources to finance Project Higher Reach. With this project, 20 welfare recipients who reside in public or subsidized housing in Bowling Green will be able to participate in a six-month work and training program that will end in a job.

Abraham Williams, director of the Housing Authority of Bowling Green, said trainees will be able to maintain Medicaid and subsidized housing while participating in the program. "We will accept no excuses for failure because we have removed all of the obstacles to your participation," he said.

Participants will work for 32 hours, four days a week, at $4.75 an hour. They will be making cabinets, upholstery work, secretarial work, custodial duties or child care. On Fridays, they will have training sessions, which will involve guest speakers or field trips to local industry to demonstrate the possibilities for their acquired skills.

Once the six-month program is over, Williams said the program will not place participants in dead-end minimum-wage jobs. Instead, they will try to provide well-paying, full-time jobs, with benefits.

"Of course, the ultimate success of this project depends on the participants themselves," he said. "They need to want welfare reform to work more than anyone else."

WKUCCC currently has nine participants working in the program.

WKU to offer new construction management major this fall

Western Kentucky University will be getting a new major this fall, construction management.

Matthew Dettman, construction management program director and Engineering Technology assistant professor, said the new major will incorporate engineering principles, physics, business law and accounting classes so majors would be able to successfully run all aspects of a construction project.

"We cover different departments because it's a broad job," he said.

The construction management program is needed because people are requesting more construction management in addition to design services, he said.

Dettman said to start the program, three new classes had to be added to the curriculum: estimating and bidding, contracts and specifications and construction administration.

With the new major, Dettman said he hopes to attract new students to Western.

"Maybe then, if we have potential students who are undecided, they'll want to do this (construction management)," he said.

Dettman said the new major is the University's attempt to offer training for a career that is in demand.

"We're in the position to supply this kind of need and training," he said. "And it's a worthy program for this university."
Faculty Appointments

Marilyn Carter, Visiting Assistant Professor, Nursing
Dr. Neresa B. Minatree, Assistant Professor, Educational Leadership
Fred Schultz, Adjunct Professor, Physics and Astronomy

Sabbatical Leaves

Dr. Kenneth J. Balak, Biology, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Erika Brady, Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Robert Crawford, Computer Science, 1997-98 Academic Year
Dr. Karen Engloft, Modern Languages and Intercultural Studies, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Robert W. Holman, Chemistry, 1997 Fall Semester
Jonathan Jefferey, Library Special Collections, 1997 Fall Semester
Dr. Lois E. Layne, Psychology, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. John A. Hagaman, English, 1998 Spring Semester
M. Susan Jones, Nursing, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Joseph R. Millichip, English, 1997 Fall Semester
Michael L. Morse, Journalism, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Gerald Post, Finance and Computer Information Systems, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Ann C. Ruff, School of Integrative Studies in Teacher Education, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Elizabeth L. Shoenfelt, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Charles W. Smith, Music, 1998 Spring Semester
Dr. Joseph S. Survant, English, 1998 Fall Semester
Dr. J. Jason Thompson, History, 1997-98 Academic Year
Dr. L. Michael Trappasso, Geography and Geology, 1998 Spring Semester

New Temporary, Grant-Funded Appointments, Promotions

Timothy A. Broekema, Photographic Documentation Professional-in-Residence, Journalism
Jeffrey P. Buldrey, Artist-in-Residence, Music
Jody Burton, Police Officer, Public Safety
Dannye Campbell, Central Site Coordinator, Teacher Education
Dana L. Divine, Educational Television Services, promoted to Operations Supervisor
Louise K. Gaudioso, Records Analyst, Information Technology
William C. Goodwin, Artist-in-Residence, Music
Charles L. Henson, Distance Education Assistant, Interactive Television
Amy T. James, Coordinator, Project Management, Administrative Computing Services
Nathan P. Jordan, Teacher, Training and Technical Assistance Services
Michael R. Kenney, Assistant Director, Upward Bound
Sally Krauss, Coordinator, Sports Information
Lynn M. Minton, Institute for Economic Development, promoted to Assistant Director
Philip Montgomery, Restricted Earnings Football Coach, Athletics
Dr. William Pfohl, Psychology, President of National Association of School Psychologists
J. Allen Polk, Police Officer, Public Safety
Jeanette Prorost, Adult Education Specialist
Judy L. Reeves, Office Assistant, Agriculture
Beth Schaefer, Region II Evaluation Coordinator, Teacher Education
Pamela Toler, promoted to Office Associate, Continuing Education
Jason L. Vincent, Admissions Counselor, Admissions

Executive, Administrative & Professional Staff Appointments, Promotions, Retirements

Dr. E. Carl Hall, Consumer and Family Sciences Department Head, June 30, 1997
Carlos Johnson, Assistant Residence Hall Director, Residence Life
Naomi J. Lewin, promoted to Senior Producer/Announcer, Public Radio
Lynn Mcguire, University Archivist
Mike Robertson, Assistant Residence Hall Director, Residence Life
Laura Sosh, Assistant Residence Hall Director, Residence Life

Support Staff Retirements

Charlotte Burchett, Administrative Computing Services, Data Control Specialist
Shirley Schoen, Office Assistant, Student Health Service & Wellness Center
Nelda Steen, Office Coordinator, Dean's Office, Potter College

In Memory

Audrey Humm, Nursing, Oct. 25, 1996
Dr. D. Whit Combs, Theatre and Dance, Dec. 23, 1996

March Continuing Ed Classes

Conversational Spanish II
March 3-27
Kentucky Authors
March 5-April 2
Microsoft Word
March 5, 12 and 15
The Professional Image Workshop, March 6-April 17
Small Business Today Videoconference Series
March 6-April 17
March

1 Community Biennial Celebration (Warren County) 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Kentucky Museum Building Contact: Kentucky Museum (502/745-2953).

2 Consolation/Championship 11 a.m. / 2 p.m. Denes Field (Hilltopper Baseball Classic) Contact: Sports Information 502/745/4298.

3 Freshman Seminar Training. Workshop sponsored by the Center for Teaching and Learning TPH Auditorium, Steve Bollard, Government. 11:45 a.m. - 1:15 p.m. 745-6050.

4 World Wide Workshops Presenter: Penny Papageli 2:30 p.m. Helm Library Room 205. Contact: Office 502/745/6135.

5 final exams for first bi-term classes. Center for Teaching and Learning Workshop, Graphic Interpretation of Content: Diagram your material for student understanding & retention. David DoCoff, Sociology. 3:30 p.m. Grise Hall 438. Call 745-6058.

COMING UP

March

6 Service one Credit Union annual shareholders meeting. 6 p.m. Buffet at six, meeting at seven. Entertainment. $7.50 adults, $2.50 children. Garrett Conference Center Contact: Service One Credit Union, Mary Faye Miller, 745-6050 or 1-800-798-8550. BGWS Chamber Orchestras featuring guitarists David Kerley, in performance of Vivaldi's Concerto for Guitar and Orchestra 8:30 p.m. Living Hope Baptist Church. Tickets, Captains Club. Contact: John Duff (502/745-3752 or 792-2792)

7 Registration for Governor's School for the Arts 6:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Lobby of Garrett Conference Center Contact: Sue Dillard 502/745/2504.

8 Music from Classic American Film 8 p.m. Van Meter Auditorium, Bowling Green Western Choral Society. Choral and solo songs from the 1930s to 1990s. Contact: Music Department 502/745/6585.

9 Susan B. Anthony: The Napoleon of the Movement 2 p.m. Kentucky Building Contact: Nancy Baid 502/745/6265.

10 Microcomputing Services Computer Training Workshop on Using Netscape 3.0 (211) 1.5 hours. Also March 5.6, and 7. Helm Library 205. Call 745-5982.

11 Hilltopper Baseball vs. Indiana Tech 2 p.m. Field Contact: Sports Information 502/745/4298.

13 Conference/Workshop 103 Contact: Student Affairs (OAR) 5 p.m. E.A. Diddle Arena Auxiliary Gym Contact: Sandra Stejner (502/842-2239).

14 Hilltopper Baseball vs. South Alabama 2 p.m. Denes Field Contact: Sports Information 502/745/4298.

15 Proposals for faculty development fund applications due in deans' offices.

19 Poetry Reading by Richard Fillingham, sponsored by the English Department. 11:45-1:15 p.m. Helm Library Room 5. Contact: Benny Beach 502/745/5792.

20 Women's History Month Keynote Speaker, Dr. Rayna Green, Director of the American Indian Program, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institute. 7 p.m. Garrett Auditorium Contact: Women's Studies 502/745-6472.

21 Bowling Green Green District Band/Instrumental & Solo Ensemble Festival. Tomorrow also. 8 a.m. - 6:30 p.m. Ivan Wilson Fine Arts Center, GCC. Contact: Bob Hannah 502/745/4024.

22 Hilltopper Baseball vs. University of Louisville 3 p.m. Denes Field Contact: Sports Information 502/745/4298.

23 WKU Women's Basketball vs. Northern Illinois 7 p.m. Garrett Conference Center Balroom Contact: Colonel Young (502/842-7032).

24 Bowling Green District Vocal Solo & Ensemble Choral Festival (Elementary & Middle School Bands) 8 a.m. - 10 p.m. Van Meter Auditorium and 3rd floor Ivan Wilson Contact: Bob Hannah 502/745-4424.

25 Bowling Green Western Choral Society. 8 p.m. 3/10 96-2 p.m. -10 p.m., 3/11/96-7 a.m. -7 p.m. Downing University Center. Call 223-3097, 3098.

26 Middle School Band Festival 7:30 a.m. Garrett Conference Center Ballroom Contact: Bob Hannah (502/745-3752).

27 Women's Alliance Spring Workshop and Luncheon, Working Out the Conflict Within: Resolving Personal and Professional Conflict- Cecile Garmon, Karen Westbrooks, Joyce Wilder. 11:45 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Institute for Economic Development Contact: Deena Groves (502/745-6153).

28 Bowling Green Western Choral Society. 8 p.m. Ivan Wilson Contact: Benny Beach 502/745-4242.

29 Bowling Green Western Choral Society. 8 p.m. Ivan Wilson Contact: Benny Beach 502/745-4242.

30 Bowling Green Western Choral Society. 8 p.m. Ivan Wilson Contact: Benny Beach 502/745-4242.

31 Bowling Green Western Choral Society. 8 p.m. Ivan Wilson Contact: Benny Beach 502/745-4242.